Yes, I will

If I get scared and cry, will you hold me?
Yes, I will hold you.

If I fall down and scrape my knee and it hurts, will you pick me up?
Yes, I will pick you up.

If I spill the milk when I try to pour myself a drink, will you let me try again?
Yes, I will let you try again and again.

If I feel sad and I don't know why, will you let me sit in your lap?
Yes, I will let you sit in my lap.

If I feel sick to my stomach and I throw up, will you sit with me till I'm better?
Yes, I will sit with you as long as it takes.

If I use bad words and stomp my feet, will you forgive me?
Yes, I will forgive you.

If I tell you my worstest, baddest, most awful secret, will you still be my friend?
Yes, I will still be your friend.

If I pretend to be big and grown up and that I don't need you, will you still hold my hand?
Yes, I will still hold your hand.

If I get lost or run far, far away, will you come and find me?
Yes, I will come and find you.

You will?
Yes, I will.

Okay.

Sterling Severns photo

Copyright © 2007 Vicki M. Kabat