The Collins Outstanding Professor Award
The 2011 Collins Outstanding Professor Award Lecture, “Life Lessons from Scientific Serendipity,” will be presented by the recipient of the award, Dr. Marcie Moehnke of the Biology Department, on Tuesday, April 12, 4 p.m. in the Baylor Sciences Building, Room A108. The Collins Outstanding Professor Award is generously provided by the Carr P. Collins Foundation in order to recognize and honor outstanding teachers at Baylor University. Baylor’s current Senior Class elects the Collins Outstanding Professor for each school year. The Collins Professor receives a cash award of $10,000, recognition in University publications, citation on a plaque, and recognition at the spring commencement. The Collins Professor will also be required to deliver a special lecture on a subject of his or her choice. The lecture will be published and made available to the University community. Dr. Moehnke is a Lecturer in the Department of Biology at Baylor University. She graduated from Texas Lutheran University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Biology with a concentration in Molecular Biology, and earned both M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in Biomedical Studies at Baylor University. Joining Baylor’s faculty in 2005, she has since taught Genetics, Introductory Biology, Molecular Genetics, and Medical Genetics. Currently Dr. Moehnke serves as an advisor for Biology, and she is a member of Biology’s Undergraduate Committee and Baylor’s Prehealth Advisory Board.
