Response from Frito-Lay RE: Frito-Lay crackers, Reference #010436178A

Hi Sue,

Thank you for writing to us.

Rest assured, the peanut butter used in our crackers and cookies is not made by the company involved in the recent salmonella outbreak.

We consider you a valued consumer and hope you will continue to enjoy snacks from Frito-Lay.

Best regards,

Linda

Dear Customer:

We have confirmed that no Kraft products are affected by the recall of peanut butter from King Nut or Peanut Corporation of America (PCA). We do not use the peanut butter subject to this recall.

Sincerely,

All,

Due to the ongoing Salmonella outbreak investigation involving peanut butter, the FDA is urging consumers to postpone eating commercially-prepared or manufactured peanut butter-containing products and institutionally-served peanut butter until further information becomes available about which products may be affected.

However, several manufacturers / suppliers have been able to confirm that their products are safe and not involved in the recall. The following companies have been cleared as of this afternoon 1/19/09:

- Lance's Snack Foods
- Tasty Baking Company - TastykakeT
- Mars Snackfood U.S.
- ConAgra Foods Products
- The Hershey Company
- Kraft
- Frito Lay (not to include Quaker label for now - release nformation is not clear)
- Smart BalanceT Peanut Butter
- Smuckers UncrustablesT

Please feel free to cal me if any questions arise Nicole Hurley 954-736-4146
