Student awards and honors

FCS students were recognized for their outstanding accomplishments during 2009. Listed below are students recognized in Child and Family Studies, Fashion Design, Nutrition Science, and Interior Design programs.

Two Nutrition Science students, Christine Hersh and Kayla Barr were appointed to National Board positions. Christine Hersh served as a student member for the food service company, Sodexo. Kayla Barr served as a student liaison for The American Dietetic Association. Another Nutrition Science student, Mai Tran was accepted to Texas A&M Medical School.

Two Fashion Design seniors placed in this year's 41st Annual Career Day competition sponsored by Dallas Fashion Group and Texas Food and Fiber. Career Day is the longest running and largest fashion career competition of its kind in the US. Zoe Martinez received a scholarship for her wool professional wear while Corey Payne won best of show for natural fibers. She received a state of the art Janome Embroidery Machine as her award. This year the Department of Family and Consumer Sciences took 60 students to Career Day and had 33 entries selected for the fashion show, five DIFFA (Design Industries Foundation Fighting AIDS) jackets, and one trend board. For the DIFFA competition students reconstruct, redesign, and embellish a denim jean jacket. Jackets are donated to DIFFA for their AIDS fund-raising auctions and events.

FCS faculty and students recently presented at the Texas Council on Family Relations (TCFR) annual conference in Dallas. Child and Family Studies (CFS) honors major, Jennifer Harris, won the "Outstanding Undergraduate Student Paper" competition—among all student entries in the state of Texas—with a paper entitled "Infant Day Care". Jennifer also co-presented a poster with Dr. Joyce Nuner on the same topic. We are also very proud of two other students, each of whom co-presented a topic with Dr. Tyler Horner: senior Molly Dethrow co-presented "Work/Life Toolkit"; and Junior Sarah Snodgrass co-presented "Closing Comments: Work/Life Trends on the Horizon". We are also excited to announce that next year's TCFR conference will be here on the Baylor campus, March 24-26, 2010. The theme is "Changing Families in Changing Times". Save the date and plan to attend! Information on other faculty presentations at this conference can be found on the FCS website at www.baylor.edu/fcs.

Interior design students continue to participate and place in student competitions. Junior Keri Brodbeck received First Place in Residential Kitchen Design at the ASID student competition in the fall in Dallas for her design of a Kosher Kitchen. Senior Angelica Brem and junior Kate Krueger participated in the IIDA Student Day Charette Competition. Ten other junior and seniors attended the event in Houston along with Dr. Bowen. Students heard professional keynote speakers and participated in tours and seminars.

Child and Family Studies Organization

This year the Child and Family Studies Organization (CFSO) was involved in a special service project to provide school supplies to children in Belize. The CFSO made crayons and recycled paper booklets. This project allowed for a social event as well as an opportunity to provide service to others. The organization was also involved with the March of Dimes premiere fundraising event, the 'March for Babies'. The March was held April 25th, 2009 at Legends Crossing, and it was bigger this year than it had been for quite some time. The CFSO raised money for the event through personal donations as well as collecting change at Piper CDC and designing and selling t-shirts for the event. The organization also helped the day of the race by setting up, face painting for children attending the event, and helping with clean up.

Kudos to '08-'09 FCS ambassadors

What a great job the 2008 -2009 ambassadors did at the Fall, Winter, and Spring Premieres. They represented the department and each program with skill and expertise! Visitors were pleased to have the opportunity to visit with 'actual students' in the sessions and asked very thoughtful questions. The ambassadors were terrific at giving honest and sincere answers

Especially, thanks to Marybeth Sparks-Bauer and Ashleigh Reuter, for Child and Family Studies; Zoe Martinez and Meredith Mitchell for Fashion Design; Elizabeth Josephson, and Katie Head for General Family and Consumer Sciences, Angelica Brem and Kate Krueger for Interior Design; Komel Crowley for Nutrition Sciences; Kim Blair and Cymone Gantt for Fashion Merchandising.

FCS internships 2009

Rising young professionals

Faculty in each of our six program areas select outstanding students each year as the rising young professionals in their academic program. At the end of the academic year one student is identified as the one 'Outstanding Student' for all FCS programs. Individuals identified by their program faculty are showcased by having their picture displayed in the building and with special recognition at the end of school celebration. During the 2008-2009 academic year, the following students were identified as rising young professionals: Anna Castleberry – Child and Family Studies, Kim Blair - Fashion Merchandising, Cymone Gantt - Fashion Merchandising, Emily McNeely – Fashion Design, Amanda Mullings - General FCS, Elizabeth Josephson - General FCS, Melissa Bell - Interior Design, Sarah Troop - Interior Design, Kayla Barr – Nutrition Sciences, and Komel Crowley – Nutrition Sciences. The '08-'09 Outstanding Student was Sarah Michelle Tigner.

Campus kitchen

Christine Hersh serves as the student manager for the hunger relief project, Campus Kitchen. This program was launched at Baylor University during the fall of 2008. Several academic departments, staff and faculty members, students, and community volunteers cooperate to help alleviate hunger in the Waco, Texas area. The Campus Kitchen project plays a unique role in the collection and distribution of surplus food from local food services, restaurants, and other dining facilities. The surplus food is donated, collected, re-packaged, and distributed to needy individuals and families.

'09-'10 Ambassadors

Each year the FCS faculty select exceptional students from each of the six program areas to serve as ambassadors. They perform as public relations officers for the programs they represent. As student leaders in the department, the ambassadors are called on to meet and speak with prospective students and their parents. The ambassadors named for the 2009-2010 academic year are Sarah Snodgrass - Child & Family Studies, Amanda Seybold - Child & Family Studies, Meredith Mitchell - Fashion Design, Sami Waley - Fashion Design, Laura Clark - Fashion Merchandising, Briana Molina - Fashion Merchandising, Ali McDole - Interior Design, Jenny Iwasko - Interior Design, Courtney McFarlin - Nutrition Sciences, Lauren Stinson - Nutrition Sciences, and Michelle Simonson - General FCS. Fashion advisory board

Members of the Fashion Advisory Board met on campus at the new McMullen-Connally Faculty Center on March 20th. These professionals from retail, catalog/e-commerce, manufacturing, and product development were helpful in generating ideas about the changing face of the economy and gave us examples of what our graduates might face in the new job market. Board members pledged to help our students with finding internships and jobs. Board members are:

Kristal Gaston, Kellwood, Linda Young, IB Wood Marketing, Lark Caldwell, Professor Emirates, Amy Raglin textile designer at JC Penney, Trish Voneiff, buyer at Neiman Marcus, Amanda Ruppel, visual merchandiser at Fossil, and Allison DuPriest, account executive at Booth Associates.

Piper Center '09 update

Piper has completed another successful school year. Over 450 university students used the Piper Center for observation and hands on study. These students were from Child and Family Studies, Nutrition, Parenting, Educational Psychology, Early Childhood Education, Psychology, and Anthropology. We have also had practicum students each semester.

This past year the Piper teachers attended the National NAEYC conference in Dallas. When they returned they incorporated their learning into the classrooms for the children to experience and the Baylor students to observe.

Currently, Piper staff are in the self-study process for the NAEYC accreditation. Lead teachers have completed their classroom portfolios and the program portfolio is in the process of being completed. We have also completed the environmental assessments and made the necessary improvements.

Over a year ago we began the implementation of Conscious Discipline. We have completed over 50 hours of professional development with certified Conscious Discipline trainers. Conscious Discipline® is a comprehensive classroom management program and a social-emotional curriculum. It is based on current brain research, child development information, and developmentally appropriate practices. The most frequent comment heard in response to the program is that it is "life-changing".

We have completed our enrollment for Fall 2009 and all classrooms are filled. We had a week of staff development before our new school year started. This new school year will bring in more conscious discipline as well as completion of the NAEYC self study and preparing for our site visit.

In February, Piper's infant class was featured on by KWTX TV highlighting how we teach the infants sign language to communicate their wants and needs. The parents were interviewed as well as children showing their use of sign language to communicate. Piper was on KWTX news again in April for our observance of the Week of the Young Child and Earth Day Celebration. The children planted a tree and planted a vegetable and flower garden. They enjoyed maintaining the garden and harvesting the vegetables this past summer.

We invite graduates to visit Piper when they are in Waco to see the many changes and exciting learning that our children and University students are experiencing.

Parker family donations New state-of-the-art fabric printer

Good things are happening in the Department of Family and Consumer Sciences at Baylor University. We are blessed with generous friends and alumni. Just this academic year, one of the department's most faithful and generous supporters, the Phil Parker family, along with departmental funds and funds from the dean of the College of Arts & Sciences purchased the Yuhan-Kimberly's Ujet MC3 digital textile printer. This advanced digital textile printer uses state of the art nano colorant textile inks with a specially formulated pigment-based chemistry, which are environmentally friendly. With this new revolutionary textile specific inkjet printing technology, it is possible to produce accurate reproduction of colors and images along with high quality and photographic imagery.

Baylor is one of ONLY two universities worldwide to have the Ujet MC3 digital textile printer. With the addition of this new revolutionary textile specific inkjet printer to the Fashion Design Computer Aided Design (CAD) lab, originally funded by the Parker family in the late 1980s, Baylor University's fashion design program continues to provide students with the most advanced and complete line of apparel software and technology available at any university in North America.

Baylor Fashion Design students will use the software and technology in the CAD lab to sketch their garments, design new fabrics (which includes printed fabrics, wovens, and knits), create and print pattern pieces for their garment designs. In addition, they will develop catalogs and storyboards to promote their products. With the addition of the Ujet MC3 digital textile printer, students are able to complete the circle of garment inspiration to completion. Students are printing the fabric for their fashion designs and using the printed fabric to cut, sew, and produce their original styles and designs.

Email addresses needed

We plan to send next year's FCS newsletter via email to readers that have an email address. Any alumni who do not have an Internet connection or email address will be able to continue receiving a paper copy of the publication through the U.S. Mail. If you do have an email address, please send it to us at bobbie_cuzzort@baylor.edu. Sending the newsletter via email will help preserve the environment by saving paper and trees.

Interior design '08-'09

The 2008-2009 academic year was a successful and busy year for both faculty and students. Topping the news was the acquisition of Harris House, located on the corner of 7th Street and Baylor Avenue, behind Collins residence hall. The new site will house a "cold" studio for seniors, allowing each senior to have their own personal drafting station for their entire senior year—somewhat of a "home away from home." The facility also has a conference area for presentations, group work, and studio instruction as well as space for storage of student work for accreditation site visits.

Senior Melissa Bell, ASID Student Chapter President, had the opportunity to participate in the ASID Chapter Leadership Conference in July in Calgary, Alberta Canada. She joined student chapter presidents from other academic institutions for leadership training and building professionalism. Both the professional organizations of ASID and IIDA strongly support our students.

The ASID Student Chapter successfully continued their calendar fundraiser for the third year in a row. The theme this year was Architecture of Waco. Original drawings done by the students of well known architectural sites in Waco were featured with each month. Student members also worked with Habitat for Humanity as their service project.

Faculty were busy this year attending professional meetings and sharing their areas of expertise with professional presentations. Dr. Bowen, Mrs. Brown, and Ms. Feilner all attended the Interior Design Educators Council Annual Conference in St. Louis in March. This conference allows faculty to network with educators across the nation, participate in cutting-edge seminars, and stay abreast of the latest in design education.

The year ended with the Senior Capstone Show, May 15. Mrs. Brown's senior capstone class presented their projects for parents and guests. Thirteen interior design students graduated in May.

Undergraduate research

Amanda Seybold, a CFS undergraduate, will fully participate in a research project implemented between June 2009 through May 2010. Her participation is made possible through a Baylor grant received by Dr. Janet Crow. The project will combine Amanda's interest in adolescent development and Dr. Crow's interests in military family functioning and well being. The project will focus on exploration of how adolescents' perceptions of family functioning and their concerns are related to the deployment of a military parent.

International influence

Dr. Joyce Nuner traveled to Punta Gorda, Belize this summer with Teachers for a Better Belize (TFABB) to conduct a five-day intensive workshop for preschool teachers in the southern most part of the country. TFABB has been training teachers in Belize for 11 years now and this will be the 3rd year that special preschool training sessions have been held. Dr. Nuner has been involved since the inception of the preschool training and has seen the program grow from 16 teachers to 32 teachers.

Designer Fashion Show Earth, Wind, Water, Fire

The students of Baylor's FCS Department presented the annual designer fashion shows on May 2, 2009 in the Barfield Drawing Room. Due to popular demand, the show was presented at 2 pm and 7 pm this year! Dr. Jaylie Beckenhauer and 32 visual merchandising students coordinated the fashion-promotion event with Dr. Judith Lusk, Mary Simpson, Jaynie Fader, Patricia Hassell and design students. Eight garments were also incorporated from Project Cotton entries, coordinated by Dr. Lorynn Divita.

Earth, Wind, Water, Fire showcased 105 garments designed and produced in seven fashion design classes throughout the fall and spring semesters. Visual merchandising students from two classes managed all aspects of the show, including planning, publicity, set design, and production. Garments were modeled by Baylor students.

FCS Seniors in the Designing for Mass Marketing capstone class presented full collections (five to 12 garments created as a cohesive apparel line) targeted to the 35 to 55 year-old woman. The collection themes were: Lynnea Erickson (Oh Jackie); Ashley Jo Green (Down by the Sea); Zoe Martinez (Comme Une Rose); Emily McNeely (De-Lovely); Stephanie Ogbodu (Precious Gems); Corey Payne (Urban Equestrian); Lauren Rusten (Glamorous Gumption); and Alicia Pruett (Portside).

Certificates for Career Day were presented following the afternoon show and designer awards were presented at the end of the evening show.

Corey Payne received Best Senior Collection. Lauren Rusten earned Most Creative Senior Collection.

Hold the date Saturday May 1, 2010 for the next designer fashion show. Alumni are always encouraged to attend!

Professors active in research

In addition to being dedicated to their teaching responsibilities, our faculty have been busy conducting, publishing, and presenting research in their respective fields. The department is proud of the many contributions our professors have made, furthering BU's reputation. For a complete list of the publications and presentations, please see the FCS website at <http://www.baylor.edu/fcs/>.

Launa Morrow Scholarship

Mrs. Launa Morrow served the Department of Home Economics (now, Family and Consumer Sciences, FCS) at Baylor University between 1956 and 1977. During this time she touched many students in a positive and productive manner! Her expertise included foods and nutrition as well as the design and construction of clothing. In honor of Mrs. Morrow, her family established the scholarship fund to honor her dedicated service to young people over her 52-year teaching career as well as her love for

Baylor University. Scholarships awarded from this endowment are helping students who want to follow in her footsteps. Scholarship recipients have all demonstrated strong scholastic ability with at least 12 semester hours in FCS and 60 hours overall. Just this past homecoming, her son and his wife visited campus and were able to visit with some of the recent recipients.

This would be a great time to donate to this scholarship so that Mrs. Morrow's legacy will continue to enable deserving students to pursue excellence in education.

Scholarships are key to the success of any academic program today. The department of Family and Consumer Sciences is fortunate to have a good beginning for scholarships to offer students studying in one of the six programs in the department. Scholarship donors are true examples of 'Paying Forward' to assure opportunity to deserving students. Take this opportunity to increase the monetary values of existing scholarships or to establish a new one!

Attention Interior Design alumni!

The program will be up for reaccreditation in Fall 2011. An electronic survey will be distributed in the fall to you so that records can be updated. Please email Dr. Bowen with your current email address so that the survey can be sent to you. If you have several of your classmates email contacts, please forward them also as everyone may not receive this newsletter.

Alumni spotlight Interior Design

Chris Alexander, Interior Design alumni, ('05) works full-time for Michael J. Siller Interiors and part-time for Deborah Goolsby Interiors. His design talents allow him to work with high-end residential clients in Texas, California, Mexico and London as well as designing restaurants in Mexico, including the design of the brand/image. Chris has also designed his own rug collection working hand-in-hand with Larry Hokanson of Hokanson Custom Carpets to create a collection of custom rugs inspired by antique Japanese kimonos. Each rug concept is unique and created with 100% wool, flax, silk, and viscous fibers—cut, looped, and hand carved. The new Alexander Collection has been shown in Hokanson showrooms in New York, Los Angeles, Houston, and Chicago. Rugs can be fabricated to fit wall-to-wall or as custom area rugs.

As a past-time and hobby, Chris enjoys photography and travel. He recently returned from a three-week trip to to the far east where he absorbed the culture and architecture, which will later serve as inspiration for designs. See Chris' work at www.mjsinteriors.com, www.deborahgoolsbyinteriors.com, and www.hokansoncarpets.com.
