

Welcome Ryan King

Last visit : 17-Apr-2005

My F1000 | Browse the Faculties | Top 10s | Advanced Search | My Details | About F1000 | Faculty Member List

Recommended
F1000 Factor 3.0
EndNote
Download citation
Send page by email

Spatial Considerations for Linking Watershed Land Cover to Ecological Indicators in Streams.

King RS, Baker ME, Kazyak PF, Hurd MK

Ecolog Appl 2005 15:137-153 [order article]

Selected by | Virginia Dale

Evaluated 12 Apr 2005

Relevant Sections

Faculty Comments

Faculty Member

Comments

Virginia Dale

Oak Ridge National Laboratory, United States of America
ECOLOGY

☒ Confirmation

This study develops ecological indicators that provide a means to quantify the relationship between spatial arrangement of land cover and stream ecosystems. It documents threshold effects of land cover on stream nitrate-N concentrations and stream invertebrates. For the abstract of this paper, please see

<http://www.esajournals.org/esaonline/?request=get-archive>

Evaluated 12 Apr 2005

cite this evaluation

Faculty Comments

How to cite the Faculty of 1000 evaluation(s) for this paper

1) To cite all the evaluations for this article:

Faculty of 1000: evaluations for King RS et al Ecolog Appl 2005 15 :137-153 <http://www.f1000biology.com/article/nonpub96889/evaluation>

2) To cite an evaluation by a specific Faculty member:

Virginia Dale: Faculty of 1000, 12 Apr 2005 <http://www.f1000biology.com/article/nonpub96889/evaluation>

© 1999-2005 Biology Reports Ltd unless otherwise stated < info@facultyof1000.com > Terms and conditions