4. Student Rights Related to Educational Records

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA) affords students certain rights with respect to their educational records. These rights include:

- 1) The right to inspect and review the student's educational records. Any student who desires to review his or her educational record in a University office may make a written request to the University custodian of the record. The custodian shall provide the opportunity to the student to inspect and review the record in not more than 45 days.
- 2) The right to request an amendment of the student's educational records to ensure they are not inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the student's privacy or other rights. Any student who desires amendment of his or her record shall follow the procedure set forth below:
 - a) A student shall submit to the custodian of the record a written request asking that the record be amended if the student has reason to believe that the educational record contains information that is inaccurate, misleading, or in violation of the student's rights of privacy.
 - b) The custodian of the record shall decide whether to amend the record as requested within a reasonable time after receiving the request.
 - c) If the custodian decides not to amend the record, the student shall be informed of his or her right to a hearing regarding the amending of the record. In cases regarding academic records, a request for a hearing should be submitted in writing to the Interim Provost. For all other educational records, a request for a hearing should be submitted in writing to the Vice President for Student Life.
 - d) If a hearing is requested, the University shall follow the procedure set forth below:
 - i) A hearing shall be held within a reasonable time after the request has been received.

- ii) The student shall be given notice of the date, time, and place, reasonably in advance of the hearing.
- iii) The Interim Provost or Vice President for Student Life will determine the school official who will conduct the hearing; the school official must be an official of the institution who does not have a direct interest in the outcome of the hearing.
- iv) The student may present relevant evidence and may be assisted by individuals of their choice at the hearing.
- v) The official in charge of the hearing shall make his or her decision in writing within a reasonable period of time after the hearing.
- vi) The decision must be based solely on the evidence presented at the hearing and must include a summary of the evidence and the reasons for the decision.

NOTE: The above procedure shall not be available to challenge the validity of a grade given by a professor or any other decision of a University professor or official but only whether the recording of such grade or decision is accurate and complete.

- 3) The right to consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information contained in the student's educational records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent. Baylor University discloses education records without a student's prior written consent under the FERPA exception for disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interest. School officials are those individuals who engage in the instructional, advisory, administrative, governance, public safety, and support functions of the University. They do not necessarily need to be paid employees of the University, which may include contractors, consultants, volunteers, or other parties to whom Baylor University has outsourced institutional services or functions. Legitimate educational interest is when a school official requires a student's educational record in the course of performing his or her duties for the University.
- 4) The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the University to comply with the requirement of FERPA. The name and address of the office that administers FERPA is:

U.S. Department of Education 400 Maryland

10. Summary of Baylor Policy, Information, and Penalties for Copyright Infringement

Under the Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) all network providers including Baylor University have a requirement to assist in copyright enforcement. As such, Baylor University takes remediation action of disconnecting computers from the network for two weeks for a first-time copyright infringement and disconnection and referral to student judicial services of a subsequent copyright infringement. The Information Technology Policy BU-PP-025 states:

Software and other materials that are protected by copyright, patent, trade secret, or another form of legal protection ("protected materials") may not be copied, altered, transmitted, or stored using Baylor-owned or operated technology systems, except as permitted by law or by the contract, license agreement, or express written consent of the owner of the protected materials. The use of software on a local area network or on multiple computers must be in accordance with the software license agreement.

Baylor University encourages students to educate themselves on copyright law as well as seek legal alternatives to peer-to-peer file sharing. A good reference list of legal alternatives is maintained by Cornell University at Cornell Copyright Policy.

Baylor provides information and a number of resources at Student Copyright Topics to help students understand and comply with federal copyright.
