Donor gifts $200 million for research

By Lucas Benson

Baylor announced Tuesday that the university will receive a $200 million gift for medical research in the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Social Work and other university programs.

The gift, which was pledged anonymously, is from a Baylor graduate whose family has made major gifts similar to others in the past. It will benefit research in the School of Social Work, reduce student housing costs and other issues associated with aging.

"It's an honor to witness the continued generosity of our donors to build the future of Baylor," said Dr. Lee Neeley, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and professor of marketing. "We dream about, hope for, and work every day to create an environment where the value of peer auditing is something people think about and talk about. It's hard to believe, but it's true."

Mayborn Museum village undergoing renovations

Baylor campus

Renovations are under way to improve the Daniel Historic Village.

The village consists of a group of small buildings, including an opera house and cotton gin, among others.

It was donated to Baylor by the Daniel family in 1988, and it was moved to Waco in 1996. The renovations began in January and will last until next year, during which the village will remain closed to the public. A mobilization of the Village is planned for spring 2012.

The Daniel Historic Village, also known as the Mayborn Museum Complex and the Mayborn Museum of Natural History, is part of the college for teaching and learning.

Baylor and McLenan Companies of the Academy for Teaching and Learning are being funded by Baylor and the Daniels and was moved to the campus.

Caston said that in previous years the area was used for community activities at Butler and during special events, such as First Friday Art Night, which could allow those types of events to continue.

Now that we see what our visitors are and what their needs are, we’re trying to match those needs with the village programming,” Caston said. “And one of the really great things about this is that it’s going to open some given events or activities. We’ll have a use for more events that would involve more Baylor students.

The course allows for searching and registration of any class offered by an instructor.

The map not only allows us to search for any building on campus, it’s the only “new build” that will be in the village area.

It’s ‘definitely something that we know we need on the site’,” Caston said.

“Now that we know who our visitors are and what their needs are, we’re trying to match those needs with the village programming,” Caston said. “And one of the really great things about this is that it’s going to open some given events or activities. We’ll have a use for more events that would involve more Baylor students.

The course allows for searching and registration of any class offered by an instructor.

Anita Benedict, collections manager, said in the past the village was more visible to students and the community.

“Now the society building is built and the village is a lot more noticeable that a lot of the community can see it,” Benedict said. “Obviously having a lot of new buildings in a riverfront good thing for Baylor and really is in good condition and is really good condition for us. We think that Baylor does care about the experience that we can offer that we can offer for the community that we can offer for the community.”

Point of View: Off-campus life comes with ups, downs

By Rachel Joseph

The debate of living in or off campus is one that begins in the spring semester and comes into a conclusion as the summer becomes the rush time for making arrangements with landlords. This debate is heated and passion is loud.

If the decision is made to remain in the dorm, moving into it is usually quite easy and early so if you have not signed a decision, now is the time.

If you are in the process of looking for apartments, the time to begin is now.

If you are moving into the dorm, much time is spent on making arrangements with landlords and parents.

The Pros

- Close to campus - can walk everywhere
- Less likely to walk to the library
- Most classes are held in the dorm

The Cons

- Less likely to form friends
- More likely to form acquaintances
- More likely to make out

Cirpitun Glover is stetched and eye-patched in perfection as the murderous Krueger of Hearts. Brush of Cat in Carroll poetry and joffr-patter jibbersh with the off-unsual-sensiwal and occasionally unhin-derable dialogue. But the Carroll characters are born, mostly as you remember them.

And if it’s not the Alice of your Disney childhood, enjoy the trip — just remember that Great Stlick sang, “what the dormouse I’m on?” Feed your head. Feed your heart.
