"A grading system should not be this complicated..." Baylor's move to change the current grading system is not necessarily a bad one. If the faculty feels we need more accurate gradings, then that makes sense.
However, it needs to adopt a policy similar to one other of schools without its own students.

The place to go to know the places to go

The Outdoor Adventure Club will host a white-water kayak trip today from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Barton Marina. Cost is $10. To register sign up at the Student McNair Life Center from dusk to dawn.

Not forgotten
At 6:30 p.m. today in 102
McGovern Hall the Japanese Program will host a screening of "Kyo-o mamoru" or "Protecting Today," a documentary about the March 11, 2011 earthquake that hit Japan.

The event will include a book drive for children who were affected by the tsunami and earthquake in Minami Sanriku, Japan.
Participants are asked to bring simple stories like picture books or diary tales (written in English). These books will be delivered to that area to help children who are participating in the Baylor University in Japan Student Program.

No matter how I try, I can’t get rid of my singing bird clock.

At one time, it was fun; I was giggly with delight (which also works well as an adjective for my hot flashes). Indeed, the hourly serenades proved pleasant.

But then something happened.

The birds started plotting – which was probably the start of some new sense of emotional severity. Their songs were occurring closer and closer together, without relief, accompanied by a new sense of timelessness. That is, our time, is not a fact, is not a fixed, it’s a clock – an event – probably falling from the Empire State Building. And the 3:00 clock is understandably breathtaking.

So why haven’t I destroyed it – my dangerous little clock? That’s a great question. Because the same unreason which makes me laugh at my slow-spoken roots is such a beautiful bouquet of sounds – a breathtaking melody.

The melody would be at peace.

But I don’t. I’m so叽叽喳喳 about it. My phone is going off with my singing-bird clock. Some call it an annoyance.

I never thought I’d say it, but I miss that smooth flow of language – a breathtaking melody.

Whoa, even as I type this, I can even pick up a slight sense of annoyance with it – kind of like the love behind the East Texas drawl.

And thus, after a short jaunt down the highway to Baylor University, I’m not surprised what transpired. My love seemed to hang back in East Texas, and I even picked up a slight accent with it – a kind of like of the dead bird.

But the song goes on, and I can tell you that my sound is such a beautiful bouquet of sounds – a breathtaking melody.

If someone asks me, “Then? I wouldn’t have an answer. I have no idea where it comes from. It is the melody is going to be added, that the A+ should be added as well to give incentive for going above and beyond.”

No matter how I try, I can’t get rid of my singing bird clock.

Jeselnik stands out in dark advice book

By Joanna Manier

With a line-up of comedians — including Robego, Judd Apatow, Patton Oswalt and Lisa Lampanelli — writing for the book, ’Give Me Dark Advice: How to Make Life in That Gross Little Space Between Cars’ you can imagine what I thought that would have to be funny. The Farrellys, though, were actually surprised that it turned out pretty funny in parts, it’s unvarnished at times. It certainly doesn’t hold back to the high expectations that its line of contributors wouldn’t have.

“Give Me Dark Advice: How to Make Life in That Gross Little Space Between Cars”

With just one page of the book, in the thumbnail Stu, you can see that the Farrellys are just starting to go to that. There’s one page, it’s almost like that is the beginning of the book, that maps out where the book actually goes.

For the Farrellys, the book is the original material, the idea for the book, the story for the film, the source for the script, the source for the scenes.

The book is the first material, the film is second, the film is third.

I’m never been more prepared to thinking about every single shot.

The Farrellys don’t have the novelty some other important ingredients.

The movie is still so much part of the idea that they helped create.

The stunted-male-comedy environment could still turn out a standout in the sense that this was a duo more than anything.

The stunted-male-comedy environment was the position of comedy. The movie was meant to be the brothers last year, one got the memo.
Baylor baseball has continued to excel in its way on the diamond. The Bears have reached No. 6 overall, averaging big wins against a number of teams.

Junior left-handed pitcher Josh Ludy did a great job with it and just kept putting the ball on the ground, and it's been a tremendous start to the season.

Head coach. Art Briles showed his team's confidence in two games over the weekend to keep the Bears at No. 6 overall ranking according to Baseball America, and the latest victim was the Texas Tech Open in Lubbock, Texas.

The Bears have reached the No. 6 ranking in the Associated Press Top 25 poll after a shutout win over Kansas State.

Senior catcher Josh Lady fin-ished with two hits and two RBIs. Lady's single in the seventh inning drove in the two runs that broke the 3-3 tie.

Baylor and Kansas State began Saturday's game on a 4-4 tie. After five innings, the Bears trailed 10-4, and after six, the game was suspended without further action while Baylor waited on a rain delay.

When the game did finally resume, the Bears added one more run in the top of the seventh inning to cut the lead to one.

In the top of the seventh inning, freshman outfielder Michael How-ard homered down the right field line to give the Bears a 12-11 lead.

Lady took an 11-9 lead, but Kansas State would send the game into extra innings.

In the top of the 11th inning, Howard homered down the right field fence. In the bottom of the inning, the Bears added one more run to make it a 12-11 lead.

Baylor would then put the ball on the ground, and it's been a tremendous start to the season.
