

STUDY IN SCOTLAND WITH BAYLOR IN ST. ANDREWS

About the Program

St. Andrews semester study abroad program is especially designed for Baylor students interested in philosophy and religion and their intersection and manifestations in culture and history. Students will study at the University of St. Andrews in Scotland. St. Andrews has an outstanding international reputation and is especially strong in philosophy, religion, classic history, art history, psychology, and the sciences.

A Baylor faculty program director will join the students for the duration of the program. Students are required to take the philosophy course taught by the program director. All other courses will be chosen from St. Andrews' undergraduate curriculum. Students are encouraged to take a religion course offered at St. Mary's College, the divinity school at St. Andrews, or one by the Department of Philosophy at St. Andrews. Curricular options are available for students in a wide variety of academic disciplines. The semester calendar is much like Baylor's. Courses are a combination of lecture and tutorial.

About the University of St. Andrews

Founded in the fifteenth century, the University of St. Andrews is Scotland's oldest university and the third oldest in the United Kingdom. The university lies in the heart of the town of St. Andrews. Unlike Baylor, everything is not gathered in one place, but spread throughout the town. The University of St. Andrews is an educational hub for a bustling international community with students and faculty from over 80 different countries. With a diverse student body of approximately 6,000 students, approximately 1/3 are from Scotland, 1/3 are from the United Kingdom and European Union, and 1/3 are from the rest of the World.

About the Program Director

The Baylor in St. Andrews program director is a faculty from the Baylor Philosophy or Religion department. In some cases, the program director will be accompanied by a spouse and children. The program director will teach one or two courses to the Baylor students at the University of St. Andrews. Students will take at least one course taught by the program director.

The program director for Baylor in St. Andrews will be announced a year in advance.
