Scope and Content

The Baylor-Carrington Family Papers were acquired by gift, purchase, and transfer in seventeen transactions, from 1935 to 2012. The first gift, from Susan Hamer Baylor Illg, in 1935 February, consisted of one letter (from Robert E. Lee to John Robert Baylor). The second gift, from Addie Baylor Carrington, in 1953 February, consisted of two items. The third gift, from Mildred Burrows Garrett, in 1935 May, consisted of some John Robert Baylor papers. The fourth gift, from Addie Baylor Carrington, on an unknown date, consisted of legal and financial documents. The fifth gift, from Addie Baylor Carrington, in 1941 November, consisted of legal documents and literary productions. The sixth gift, from Addie Baylor Carrington, in 1968 August, consisted of correspondence and photographic materials. The seventh gift, from Roxa D. Gillett, in 1960 February, consisted of a scrapbook. The eighth gift, from Addie Baylor Carrington, on 1970 October 1, consisted of two scrapbooks, literary productions, correspondence, and photographic materials. The ninth gift, from Addie Baylor Carrington, on 1970 October 21, consisted of a book, literary productions, correspondence, and photographic materials. The tenth acquisition, purchased from El Paso Public Library, on 1972 October 23, consisted of copies of articles from the El Paso Herald. The eleventh gift, from Mr. and Mrs. Charles King, on 1974 September 30, consisted of eight photographs. The twelfth gift, from David N. Rust III, in 1980 July, consisted of copies of correspondence from George Washington to George Baylor. The thirteenth gift was from Ira W. Black on 1984 November 26. The fourteenth gift, from Myron W. Gwinner, on 1986 September 12, consisted of copies of genealogical materials regarding John Baylor. The fifteenth gift, from Mr. and Mrs. Byron Henneke, in 1986 December, consisted of 1/2 inch of correspondence and literary productions. The sixteenth gift, from the Baylor University Historian's Office, in 1989 January, consisted of copies relating to the Baylor family. The seventeenth acquisition, transferred from the uncatalogued holdings of the Texas Collection (in B5A), on 2012 August 8, consisted of seven issues of Baylor Quarterly.

The Baylor-Carrington Family Papers cover a century and a half of Baylor and American history, from 1715 to 1978, although the bulk of the materials are from 1840 to 1930. Baylor men of prominence were involved in the American Revolution, the Texas Revolution, Indian fighting with the Texas Rangers, the Civil War, and World War I -- all of which are represented in this collection. This collection includes records produced by several generations of Bayers, most of whom lived and worked in Texas. These records are of both personal and professional natures, and include a large amount of correspondence (especially between family members). The literary productions series is the largest and includes biographical and genealogical materials about Baylor and other families. In addition to documents, this collection contains photographs, books, scrapbooks, and artifacts.

Administrative/Biographical History

The Baylor family arrived in America around 1690, when John Baylor II migrated from England. He was later joined by his father, John I, and in 1721 the family received a large land grant in Virginia. John II and his son, John III, were both members of the Virginia House of Burgesses. Two of John III's sons served as officers in the American Revolution: George (1752-1784) was an aide-de-camp for George Washington and Walker (1762-1822) served as captain of the Third Continental Dragoons (also known as Baylor's Dragoons).

Walker began the family's westward migration by moving to Kentucky in 1783; his sons and grandsons were the ancestors of the Texas Bayers. Robert Emmett Bledsoe Baylor (1793-1873), son of Walker and Jane Bledsoe, moved first to Alabama and then to Texas. He fought in the War of 1812 and became a legislator, lawyer, and pioneering Baptist leader. Baylor University is named for him. Many of his male relatives followed a similar pattern of migration and political and military involvement.

John Walker VIII (1786-1835), Robert's brother, had a number of sons who went west and participated in the Texas Revolution, the Civil War, and various wars against the American Indians. One son, George Wythe (1832-1916) graduated from Baylor University and fought Comanche Indians in 1859-1860. During the Civil War, George Wythe served as aide-de-camp to fellow Texan Albert Sidney Johnston, and later served as the colonel of the Second Arizona Cavalry. After the war, he joined the Texas Rangers, rising to the rank of major. In 1880, George Wythe served in the Texas House of Representatives. One of his grandsons, James Harper Baylor Lee-Gillette (1884-1941), was the first American matador. Another of John Walker VIII's sons, Henry Weidner (1818-1854), went west in 1839. He served in the Texas Revolution, and was eventually elected captain of a company. Baylor County, Texas, is named in his honor.

The most prominent of John Walker VIII's sons was John Robert (1822-1894). In the early 1840s, John Robert fought in the Texas Revolution. Afterwards, he took it upon himself to destroy the Comanche Indians. He traveled around Texas stirring up anti-Indian sentiment, edited an anti-Indian newspaper called White Man, and even raised a vigilante force of 1,000 men. He served in the Texas legislature from 1852-1854. During the Civil War, John Robert was commissioned as Confederate lieutenant colonel—and later became a colonel—in command of the Second Texas Mounted Rifles. He organized the Confederate Territory of Arizona and served as its military governor. After John Robert planned the massacre of a group of Apaches in 1862, Confederate President Jefferson Davis stripped him of command. By that time, higher-ranking Henry Hopkins Sibley was leading the 1862 Confederate Invasion of New Mexico, which meant John Robert would not have been in command of the Arizona territory anyway. John Robert fought as a private in the 1863 Battle of Galveston and subsequently served in the Second Confederate Congress. He was married to Emily Jane Hanna (1825-1917).

One of John Robert's sons, Henry Weidner IV (1848-1932), was a private under his uncle George Wythe during the Civil War. Later he served as the sheriff of Uvalde County for twenty-two years and as the tax assessor for twelve. Henry Weidner IV was married to Addie DeLeon Hamer (1851-1894), after whose death he married Florence Black. His grandson, John Roy XVII (1899-1918), served as a sergeant in the United States Army during World War I until his death in France in October 1918. John Roy XVII's sister, Addie (1897-1984), was a school teacher in Marquez, Texas. She was active in organizing the 1930 Baylor family reunion (one among a few reunions in the 1930s and 1940s). This collection owes much to Addie's efforts to collect and preserve her family history. Addie married Royle Pruitt Carrington, among whose nineteenth-century ancestors was an active Texas lawyer. As a group, the Baylor family has been interested in its history; they established a family organization and for a while published a magazine dedicated to the family history. These activities, along with many Bayers and their long history, are represented in the Baylor-Carrington Family Papers.

Archival Arrangement

Most of the Baylor-Carrington Family Papers were organized prior to this finding aid, although there were a number of entirely unprocessed boxes.

The collection is now organized into eight series: I. Correspondence, II. Legal Documents, III. Financial Documents, IV. Literary Productions, V. Books, VI. Photographic Materials, VII. Artifacts, and VIII. Scrapbooks. Where possible, items are arranged chronologically.

Series 1: Correspondence. 1715-1969

Summary Information

Extent (quantity/size) 5 document boxes

Administrative/Biographical History

This series contains personal and professional correspondence from several generations of Bayers and Carringtons. While most of the series is in good condition, Addie DeLeon Hamer Baylor's letters are in poor condition. Much of Emily "Emy" Jane Hanna Baylor's correspondence is from her husband, John Robert Baylor. Of particular note is a copy of a letter from Robert E. Lee to John Robert Baylor.

Administrative/Biographical History

This series consists of a variety of legal documents from the Baylor and Carrington families. The majority of the series, however, is a dense run of contracts from the Carrington family—covering from the 1830s to the 1910s. Of particular note is John L. Wall's contract signed by the president of the Republic of Texas, Mirabeau B. Lamar, as well as John Robert Baylor's pass to move about the Confederate States of America signed by Secretary of State Judah P. Benjamin.

Series 4: Literary Productions. 1844-2007

Summary Information

Extent (quantity/size) 7 document boxes, 1 oversized box

Administrative/Biographical History

This series consists of printed materials, collected materials, subject files, genealogical materials, biographical materials, clippings, manuscripts, and other types of literary productions. Included are materials created by Baylor family members (like the many newspaper articles by George Wythe Baylor) as well as information about members of the family (like the many biographical and genealogical materials). While the series is generally in good condition, Addie DeLeon Hamer Baylor's materials are in poor condition.

Summary Information

Extent (quantity/size) 5 document boxes, 3 oversized boxes

Administrative/Biographical History

This series consists of books authored or collected by members of the Baylor and/or Carrington families, from the eighteenth to the twentieth centuries. There are a couple family Bibles containing birth, death, and marriage dates. Of particular note is a second edition of Thomas Jefferson's A Manual of Parliamentary Practice, from 1812, and George Wythe Baylor's copy of H.S. Thrall's History of Texas, which contains Baylor's marginalia regarding his own participation in the events described.
