Scope and Content

The Waco Community Race Relations Coalition Records were acquired by gift in two transactions from a donor representing the Community Race Relations Coalition. The first gift, given by Jonathan Lindsay for the Community Race Relations Coalition on 2011 March 2, consisted of 13 banker's boxes stuffed with records. The second gift, given by Jonathan Lindsay for the Community Race Relations Coalition on 2011 March 31, consisted of 1 binder containing 2009-2010 correspondence and minutes of the Coalition Board.

This collection begins in 1998 and ends in 2010, with some undated materials. Material types present in the collection include correspondence, legal and financial documents, literary productions, photographs, and media. The Internal Documents series is by far the largest in the collection. A large amount of minutes from the Coalition Board and the Executive Board give a complete history of the coalition for most of their history prior to 2010. The collection contains very few photographs for such a large and well-publicized group. Much of their activities were documented in articles and editorials by the Waco Tribune-Herald.

Administrative/Biographical History

The mission of the Community Race Relations Coalition is to promote racial and cultural awareness in the Waco, Texas, community. Founded in 1999, the organization continues to provide education and leadership on these topics today.

The Coalition began life from a series of grassroots dialogues in Waco about race. The first dialogue emphasized small group sharing of problems and solutions, while the second dialogue a year later offered workshops designed to provide further answers to problems brought up in the first dialogue. Various community leaders met informally as a steering committee to plan both dialogues, and over the next several years the committee gradually became a more formally organized group, with a constitution and bylaws, elected officers, committees, and annual member meetings. Records from the early years of the group, as well as important legal documents that the group produced, can be found in this collection.

With a large and diverse membership, the coalition has held workshops, small group study sessions, dinners, training sessions, movie screenings, award banquets, festivals, and book club meetings designed to promote better understanding of race. As local issues of interest arose the group discussed the issue and sometimes endorsed the idea, such as a proposal to place a large statue of a Texas Ranger close to the Texas Ranger Museum. For several years the group assisted the local chapter of the National Coalition Building Institute. The coalition has also held many popular events during Black History Month to help educate the public about race. Records detailing all these activities and more can be found in this collection.

The signature issue of the coalition became their effort to obtain an apology from the Waco community for the horrific lynching of Jesse Washington in 1916. The coalition focused on the McLennan County Commissioner's Court as the proper public group from which to receive an apology. After the public debated the issue for months, helped by written editorials and meetings held by the coalition, a compromise resolution was agreed upon offering a condemnation of the lynching. Manuscripts describing the coalition's involvement in this process can be found in this collection.

The Community Race Relations Coalition continues today to provide a public forum for leadership and education on racial awareness.

Series 2. Dialogue on Race Relations. 1998-1999

Administrative/Biographical History	The Community Race Relations Coalition grew out of the Dialogue on Race Relations, held in 1999, but planned for since 1998. This series contains materials from that first "founding" dialogue, which emphasized the need for the people of Waco to talk about race. The series contains various reports, minutes, correspondence, and clippings from that first dialogue.

Series 5. 3rd Anniversary Dialogue on Race Relations. 2001-2004

- Administrative/Biographical History This series contains information about the 3rd Anniversary Dialogue. It is not known why the anniversary dialogue numbers jump from 1 to 3; perhaps The Texas Collection has not received any documents on the 2nd Anniversary Dialogue. The 3rd Dialogue, held in 2001, continued to explore race relations in Waco.

Series 6. General Meetings. 2000-2011

- Administrative/Biographical History This series contains information about the various meetings the coalition held through their history. The first date in each folder is the date of the actual meeting, the second date describes the date range in the folder. As the coalition became more organized, they held four regular meetings every year, but there are also special meetings. These were called when the coalition was working on a specific issue, such as the 2006 public apology for the Waco lynching of Jesse Washington. These meetings are organized by date. The Literary. General folders in this series contain a wide variety of literary manuscripts, including broadsides announcing the meeting, programs, notes, minutes, and other related materials.

Series 13. National Coalition Building Institute. 2001-2009, undated

- Administrative/Biographical History This series contains materials about the coalition's work with the National Coalition Building Institute (NCBI). Some members of the coalition were trained by the institute, and several workshops were held in Waco, but there does not seem to be any long-term partnership between the two separate groups.
