Processing Information Described by Thomas DeShong and released on 2013-02-27. Materials inventoried by Brandon L. Cunningham.

Scope and Content

The Marvin C. Griffin Papers came to The Texas Collection as a gift from Reverend Griffin on 2011 June 27. The materials within this collection span from 1940 to 2011, with the bulk of the materials dating from 1970-2005.

The collection focuses primarily on Griffin's ministries at New Hope Baptist Church in Waco and Ebenezer Baptist Church in Austin. Series I. Literary Productions and Series IV. Audio Recordings are by far the largest series in the collection. There is an extensive number of notebooks that chronicle developments among Baptists in Texas, the rise of the African American church, and various local matters of which Griffin was a part. The audio recordings contain over 1,500 sermons preached by Griffin and others from the 1970s into the twenty-first century.

Administrative/Biographical History

Marvin Collins Griffin was born in Wichita, Kansas on 1923 February 20. He was the son of William Marvin Collins and Beulah Howell. Raised by his uncle and aunt near Dallas, Texas, Griffin felt a call to the ministry at the age of seven.

Education proved to be a powerful medium through which Griffin could equip himself to preach the gospel and fight for African American civil rights. He spent his youth in the Dallas public school system. In 1943, Griffin graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree from Bishop College. Four years later, he earned a degree in Divinity from Oberlin Graduate School of Theology. In 1955, Griffin became the first African American to graduate from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary when he earned a Master of Religious Education degree. Years later, Griffin attained his Doctorate of Ministry from Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

Armed with his sense of calling and a quality education, Reverend Griffin began preaching in 1940 and was ordained two years later. While earning his degree from Oberlin, Griffin served as a professor at the Oklahoma Baptist School of Religion (1944-1948). His first significant pastoral assignment was New Hope Baptist Church in Waco. From 1951 to 1969, Griffin led his congregation in growing the church and social activism within the community. He began an extensive radio broadcast ministry and led various marches and pickets in Waco.

In 1969, Griffin relocated to Ebenezer Baptist Church in Austin, Texas, where he remained for the next forty-two years. Once again, Griffin believed that his church should be involved in the spiritual and secular life of the community. He led the church's efforts in creating the East Austin Economic Development Corporation in 1998. This organization was a vehicle through which the church could assist the underprivileged through housing programs, day care centers, counseling, and financial assistance. In 2002, the EAEDC building was renamed in honor of Marvin Griffin.

In addition to his pastoral duties, Griffin was also involved in local politics and denominational affairs. He served as the first African American president of the Austin Independent School District Board of Directors, during which time the schools were using buses to encourage efforts of desegregation. Griffin was also involved in the Missionary Baptist General Convention of Texas, was the Director of the Christian Education Enrichment Program at the National Baptist Fellowship of Churches, and served as a Director-Lecturer for the Teacher Training Department of the National Baptist Sunday School Congress.

On 2011 July 31, Reverend Griffin retired from his tenure as pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist Church. A month earlier, he had donated his collection of private papers to The Texas Collection.

Griffin married Lois King on 1944 August 5. They had three daughters: Mana Lois Carter, Gaynelle Jones, and Ria Griffin. Mrs. Lois Griffin passed away in 2006.

Archival Arrangement

Prior to this latest round of processing, an inventory had been completed, but the materials themselves were not arranged according to a previous organizational scheme. The materials are in good to excellent condition.

After reviewing the inventory, the materials were arranged into four series: I. Literary Productions, II. Awards and Certificates, III. Photographic Materials, and IV. Audio Recordings.

Series 1: Literary Productions. 1940-2010, undated

Administrative/Biographical History

Series I. Literary Productions contains books, essays, notebooks, programs, and other materials that show Reverend Griffin's involvement among Texas Baptists as well as his struggle for African American civil rights. Particularly prominent are Griffin's notebooks and scrapbooks that he collected. Topics of these binders include Austin schools, the African American church, and various church programs such as Sunday School and the radio broadcasts that Griffin led. The materials in this series are in good to excellent condition.

Archival Arrangement

The materials within this series are organized alphabetically according to the type of material. Notebooks have been taken apart, and the individual pages have been stored in the corresponding folders.
