Scope and Content

This collection is comprised of minutes from various aspects of the church including the minutes for business, deacons, the building and grounds committee, the youth council, and the senior citizens group, the "Trailblazers." In addition to these minutes are notes from multiple committees such as the fellowship committee, educational committee, and publicity committee. There are also detailed financial reports concerning the general operations of the church dating from 1961-2002. These financial reports include information detailing the financial business of the church, lists of the death of the members of the congregations, donation records, financial and detailed information regarding various mission works, receipts, notes for banking and church expenditures, correspondence concerning insurance. Also included is the Memorial Baptist Church constitution, a list of the church policies, and job descriptions. There is also detailed information concerning the various preachers of Waco Memorial Baptist Church, a brief history of the establishment of the church, lists of the charter members, listings of members and membership dues, Sunday school reports, lists of various goals for the church, schedules, invitations, RSVP cards, programs, thank you notes, and notes for preparing for special celebratory services such as the Homecoming service in 1983 and the 45th anniversary services. In addition to the general church business there is also more specific information concerning the Memorial Youth Council, also known as "Youth for Christ", such as the history of the group, various newsletters, bulletins and the youth council constitution. There are also photographs of the early meeting places of the Waco Memorial Baptist Church congregations, church events, and church members. Finally, the collection includes the church ledgers, scrapbooks, and membership cards. All of the collections contents date 1943-2003.

Administrative/Biographical History

Memorial Baptist Church, located in Waco, Texas, was established in 1943 May by a group consisting of Sunday School teachers, officers, deacons, and other Waco citizens. The name "Memorial Baptist Church" was chosen to commemorate the fallen soldiers of World War II and served as a memorial for fallen soldiers who had fought for the United States. Although the church did not initially have an official building, the Memorial Baptist Church congregation held their meetings and conducted their Sunday School classes and services in various church member's homes. The first pastor of Waco Memorial Baptist Church was Reverend A. Meyers and shortly after he was installed, the church purchased the building and grounds at 801 South 22nd Street, Waco, Texas. The members of the church donated money to fund part of the purchase. The first meeting at this site occurred on 1943 June 27, which was conducted under the tent tabernacle purchased by the church. Three months later under the supervision of D.B. Wiley, the construction of the auditorium commenced and completed later that year. At the end of the church's first year of operation, the Sunday School enrollment had grown from 63 to 308 participants.

Memorial Baptist Church celebrated its first anniversary on 1944 May 7 with 272 individuals present. In 1949 February, J.M. Rickerson presented to the congregation a Hammond organ as a gift. Later on 1951 July 4, due to the increasing congregation member numbers and Sunday school participants, the church voted to erect an additional education building on the ground to utilize for the growing Sunday School classes.

On 1960 April 1, the church purchased the final site for Memorial Baptist Church at 2218 Ross Avenue. A new auditorium was dedicated on 1960 October 23 to serve a total church membership of 1,100. Due to the continuing expanding membership of church, the building facing 22nd Street was later purchased as an addition and was converted into a Youth Building.

On 2002 December 31, Waco Memorial Baptist church closed due to dwindling membership, but the church still had sufficient funds to continue to operate. When Memorial Baptist Church purchased the land for their final site, the neighborhood was predominately a Caucasian neighborhood and slowly evolved into a predominately Hispanic neighborhood. The church failed to attract the newer area residents, resulting in gradually diminishing numbers. The church and grounds eventually were donated to the Waco Baptist Association of which the church was a participating member. The church and grounds continued to be used as a church and now is Maranatha Church, a member of Waco Baptist Association. In the church's 59 year history, the church was led by seven pastors, A. Meyers, Harry Brasher, B. Gene Grace, Joe Cranfill, Kenneth Dill, Derek Dodson and finally Jimmie Spann.
