Mayborn to host Forensic Forum

By Ashley Killough and Anna Taylor

The Mayborn Museum Complex will join forces with the anthropology, forensic science and archaeology departments to present the lecture series, “Forensic Forum: Real Science, Real Experts” on anthropological and forensic topics. The series will provide information about careers for students and adults this Thursday through Saturday. Frankse Pack, assistant director of exhibits, said the forum’s objective is to discuss different angles of bone analysis and its benefits to past and present societies.

“My main focus will be on the domestication of animals,” Pack said. “Bones can also tell us about certain people with different occupations and what they did or how they lived.”

Featuring four notable experts, the series will take place in the SIC Theater at the Mayborn.

Dr. Ben Arbuckle, assistant professor at Mercyhurst College, will lecture at 1 p.m. Saturday. Arbuckle will speak on the contemporary importance of forensic anthropology.

Bromly, Calif., junior Matt Brawly, said, “Forensic bone studies and forensics have made the college an appealing venue for former Baylor faculty and staff. Now the two largest Baptist universities in the United States are working together on projects that involve the forensic community as we continue to support the J.M. Dawson Institute for Church and State and the J.M. Dawson Bible and Church History Library.”

Dr. Wallace Daniel, Ralph L. and Bessie M. Crandell, professor of history at Baylor, will lecture on the anthropology of bringing together liberal arts and professional education in new, innovative forms, among other compliments, in his message.

“I hope the university will feel this as a golden opportunity, especially for students and faculty,” Underwood said Daniel’s former peers now at Mercer may find the move to Mercer isn’t a one-way street. Dr. Benjamin Kelly, dean of the engineering school, came to Baylor in 1999 after teaching at Mercer. Underwood called Mercer a “very, very strong academic institution” that preserves religious diversity. Likewise, Underwood had only good things to say about Baylor. Baylor faculty and staff members showed support and were very encouraging for Daniel in his decision to accept the position at Mercer, Underwood said.

“Wallace Daniel is a scholar and a gentleman. He substan- tially supported my early years here at Baylor as it worked through the tenure process,” said Larry Brumley, dean of theology at Mercer. “He is a great place to build your career. And realize a brighter future. It is a great place to work around the world.”

And if you’re thinking about future in accounting, the answer about KPMG is “yes.” KPMG, the world’s largest accounting and tax professional services firm, will speak on the importance of having a career in audit, tax, and advisory services. Not to mention the great opportunities that exist within KPMG’s vast range of career opportunities in audit, tax, and advisory services. KPMG is a great place to build your career. And realize a brighter future. It is a great place to work around the world. KPMG careers.com

The Bears have cracked the top 25, according to the Associated Press, for the first time in 25 years.

The Associated Press revealed its first top-25 ranking of the season Wednesday, following Baylor's win over Texas A&M on Monday. The Bears, who were ranked 25th in the Associated Press poll last week, jumped three spots to No. 22.

Baylor currently ranks first in free throw percentage in the Big 12 and ninth in field goal percentage in the conference. The Bears are 10-2 on the season and 2-0 in the Big 12. Baylor is scheduled to face Texas A&M on Sunday for the second time this season.

Baylor coach Art Briles said he was pleased with the Bears' performance against the Aggies.

"At least until they travel to Austin, they are the best team in the Big 12," Briles said. "I think that shows that all of the things we've been talking about and trying to do are paying off. We really don't lose any game."
The Baylor Lariat -

When the women’s basketball schedule was released in late August, few would have guessed that the Lady Bears would have been the No. 1 team in the country in the final Associated Press tumor poll.

Baylor’s 12-0 start is the best start since the 1985-86 season, and the Bears are in the thick of the national title race. The Bears are currently ranked No. 1 in the NCAA tournament rankings, and they have won their last six games.

The Bears are led by senior guard Angela Tisdale, who is averaging 22.5 points per game. Tisdale is a valuable asset for the Bears, and her scoring ability has helped lead the team to success.

In addition to Tisdale, the Lady Bears have several other key players, including junior center Brittney Griner, who is averaging 14.6 points and 14.6 rebounds per game. Griner is a dominant force in the paint, and her presence has been crucial to the team’s success.

The Lady Bears have also received strong contributions from their bench players, including sophomore forward Jordan Madden, who is averaging 11.2 points per game.

The Lady Bears have not lost a game this season, and they are off to their best start in school history. They are currently 12-0 overall and 3-0 in conference play.

The Bears’ next game is on Wednesday, January 23, 2008, when they will face off against the Missouri Tigers at the Ferrell Center in Waco, Texas. The game will be televised on ESPNU, and it is expected to be a highly competitive contest.

The Lady Bears are one of the top teams in the NCAA and are a strong contender for the national championship. They have the talent, experience, and determination to win it all, and fans are eagerly anticipating their next game.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — No Country for Old Men and There Will Be Lies with eight Academy Awards nominations each Tuesday, among them best picture and acting honors for Daniel Day-Lewis and Javier Bardem — it remains to be seen whether any stars would cross singing circles and white picket fences to attend the ceremony.

No Country for Old Men, crime saga about a drug deal gone bad, and There Will Be Lies, a historical epic set in California’s oil boom years, will compete for best picture against the melancholy romance Eastern Promises, the pregnancy comedy preggo and the bombing drama Michael Clayton.

The show has become a cinematic crucible of the sort that by the Oscar season a film must go through if it is to make the final cut. And the male population, with oregano-scented hair a la Bardem, has all the same sorts of internal covenants as the female race.

So what is the secret to winning the affection of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences or, if you prefer, the Oscar? It’s not the one thing that wins them: it’s the sum of them. The combined talents of the actors, director, writers, and producers and the quality of the film that a movie must show, said Blake Reeves, coordinator of campus programs, in a memo to The Lion.

The article notes that Helen Mirren, for her role as a ruthless killer, Bar- dem looks like the closest thing to a front-runner this Oscar season, which is usually wide-open for best picture and other categories. Bardem and Helen Mirren are up against each other in the best actress category. Bardem and the Coen Brothers are nominated for writing Eastern Promises. Girard

Cline, the father of the core players who play a band of musicologists who will perform.

On film, they are expected to be a clever and effective promotion tool for the event. The songwriters will perform, in a manner of speaking.

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences is hitting all the winners and will be celebrated as the victory of the moment.

Jane had known weddings were near since she was a child. But this film does an even better job of preparing us for the wedding season. "Cloverfield," released during the summer of 2008, is sure to set the spotlight on what happens when a giant monster attacks a city, leaving chaos and destruction in its wake.

The film opens with a group of friends gathering at a bar. One of them, Kevin, reveals that his brother, Jason, is planning to get married the next day. The group is excited for Jason, but they are also anxious about the wedding. "I don't know if I should have put a warning label on this movie when he's been running around like a maniac," says Kevin.

As the movie begins at the theater with looks of impending doom, all of which is caught on a hand-held camera, you, too, were running to save people, to be a part of the action, as if you were the characters in the film. The hand-held camera work is a rock of support, a confidante, a friend, a giant monster attacks a city, leaving chaos and destruction in its wake.

"It was an incredibly realistic flick more realistic than the typical monster movie," says Kevin. "I mean, it was toxic levels of estrogen out of women and men, and they knew they'd have to deal with that."

Kevin's piece is a smash, but Jane doesn't think it will win the Oscar. "I mean, I don't think they would have chosen it for this year," she says. "I think they are going to go with a more traditional film, like "The Reader.""

Israel eases chokehold on Gaza for 1 day, allowing in needed supplies

By Ibrahim Barakz

The Associated Press

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip — Israel has eased its chokehold on Gaza for a day, allowing in needed supplies.

Israel and Egypt have been blocking Gaza since August 2007, after several rocket attacks by Hamas militants.

The easing of the blockade comes a day before the opening of the Gaza-Egypt border crossing.

The meeting also focused on future changes to be made to the BID.

“We’re looking at forming a committee to advise the BID staff as more in a role of facilitation,” Richardson said.

The committee will evaluate the services previously provided by the BID and decide which to keep, which to discard and what additions should be made.

The committee will also discuss procedures for handling alcohol infractions.
