Using the Baylor University Undergraduate Catalog as a Resource

Pre-Advisement Workshop for Honors Program Freshmen
Why is it important to understand the catalog?

It is:

- the authoritative word on the requirements for your major and your degree—and thus for graduation; and
- a tool for learning specifics about individual courses within prospective areas of interest.
It is essential to your success at Baylor that you understand and use the Undergraduate Catalog.

If you have questions about your schedule, degree, courses (including eligibility for them), or requirements, check the catalog.

You are bound to the requirements of the catalog in place when you entered Baylor University.

If you change your catalog year to a future catalog, you are bound to ALL requirements of the new catalog.

Noteworthy Definitions

- prerequisite – a course or courses that must be completed to be eligible to register for another course.

- corequisite – a course that must be taken in tandem with another course. The two courses must be entered into BearWeb at the same time.

- degree audit – an electronic evaluation of a student’s academic progress that displays both the coursework completed and the coursework remaining in order to fulfill the requirements for the student’s declared degree.

- Honors audit – an electronic record of a student’s completed Honors work. This can be found in the advising section of Bear Web.
Think in terms of three categories:

1. General Degree Requirements:
Courses required of anyone pursuing one of the University-granted degrees available (e.g., a BA, a BBA, or a BSEd)
   - Lower-level Honors courses (other than specifically required ones) most often are taken in this category
Course categories (Continued):

2) Courses toward a Major, Minor, or Pre-Professional Track:

Courses required in fulfillment of a student’s declared major or minor, or toward a pre-professional track (e.g., Pre-Healthcare).

3) Elective Courses:

Courses taken for credit, and toward the minimum credit-hour requirements to graduate, but not toward either the student’s general degree requirements or the student’s major field of study.
Use the Catalog to consider course selections

- Identify and mark your declared degree plan (or your prospective degree plans).
  - Degree-plan requirements are listed near the beginning of the section tabbed for each college/school within the university (e.g., Arts & Sciences, Business).

- Identify and mark the requirements for your major (or prospective majors).
  - Requirements for all the academic majors within each college/school follow, usually in alphabetical order, the basic requirements for the degrees offered.

- Find and mark the descriptions of individual courses required for the degree and the major (see the back of Catalog: courses appear in alphabetical order of the departments which offer them).
Using the Catalog when your major is Undecided

- Narrow your potential degree plans down to two at most.
- Collate the courses required for these different degree plans:
  - Identify common courses required by both;
  - Focus on these courses while you discern your to-be-declared degree plan; and
  - Try to earn credit for "additional Honors units" through these courses.
Using the Catalog
when your major is “Undecided”

Familiarize yourself with course descriptions of upper-level (“3000”- and “4000”-level) courses offered in your prospective majors.

- These course descriptions, in tandem with the requirements for a given major, will provide you with an overview of the kind of work that such a major would entail.
- Do these courses sound interesting? related to what you want to study and to do? relevant to your strengths, callings?
