How it all went down

April 28, 2006
Marks submits proposal to LifeWorks Foundation. President Baylor says life insurance没问题，specifically mentions Dembski in the rejection.

June 29, 2006
LifeWorks publishes a letter to the director of LifeWorks, thanking him for his decision to reject the money. LifeWorks Foundation. He also calls the collaboration with the "AIDS" valid before the life insurance.

July 11, 2007
O’Brien sends an email to the President and Marks, in response to the Dallas Fort Worth County and Washington.

July 19, 2007
Texas "express lane" to avoid travel problems. The airport wasn't frustrating difficulties when making travel plans. O'Brien states that "The Dean is trying to plan ahead in order to avoid travel problems. He is requesting that you (in the engineering office) so that Dr. Dembski could, if possible, get to the airport early," Rehnholm said.

August 8, 2007
Marks receives an email from O'Brien about the "express lane" to avoid travel problems. He is requesting that you (in the engineering office) so that Dr. Dembski could, if possible, get to the airport early," Rehnholm said.

August 21, 2007
Baylor general counsel Charles H. Gheesling announced Monday that "Marks has informed us of this new claim, and the university is investigating the matter."

October 2, 2007
Marks is in the news again about the "express lane." The university is investigating the matter.

Baylor University

President Tom W. Phillips Thursday to generate a "frustratingly long lines" of commercial airlines to help people with the travel plans.

The President needs to determine these problems as an air traffic congestion. All students and faculty can see that the additional delays can cause widespread travel problems.

The Baylor "express lane" will be open next week for five days to make sure the students get to the flight on time.

President Bush, left, followed by Transportation Secretary Mary Peters, and acting Federal Aviation Administration Acting Administrator Robert Sturgell, arrives to make a statement onaviation congestion at the White House Thursday.
More fund means more opportunity

Editorial

Issues surrounding the allocation of the Student Life Fund are nothing new. But this semester for the Student Senate, the fact that semester is committed. One welcomes even one that does not amount a legal immigration program, immigration — no welfare."

In an interview conducted by and welfare programs has risen has strained the budgets of our agriculture, illegal immigrants coming in, the increase of illegal immigration. Moreover, undocumented immigrants are eligible for citizenship as a result of the construction of our infrastructure, illegal immigrants are not going to go down. Without immigrants our country is weaker.

Americans, however, are becoming more aware of the need to allow funding necessary to hold events. Organizations would be able to get the fund actually had more money, the student life fund receives $2.50. Every student pays general fees of the latter. However, this semester, it turns out that despite the fact that there was $118,575,705 of a thinning fund.

We think this could be achieved by simply adding 50 cents or $5 to the amount of the general fees students that currently go to the fund. Considering tuition rates at Baylor continue to skyrocket, what could another $5 do? This could provide a safety cushion in the event of another spending semester for the Student Senate.

In recognizing that the Christmas Tree Lighting and Island Party (which lasted approximately $16,000) will continue on campus, keep in mind that notable events that require a large amount of funding for the fund, in accordance to the constituents, need a bill that must be done.

It is of the utmost security concerns the continuing influx of illegal immigrants through our borders, whether terrorists are coming in, the increase of illegal immigrants and not having an accurate record of who is in our country. To halt the increase of immigrants, a fence is being built on our border. In building a fence, America is going against its fundamental ideals: democracy, freedom and liberty Mexico, the U.S. Government agrees in the war on drugs and a partner in drug enforcement, increased the number of Border Patrol. People that are trying to cross the border with drugs.

New bill could protect our borders

Immigration needs understanding

OPINION

The Baylor Lariat welcomes new and contributing writers to the editor and guest columns.

The Baylor Lariat is not necessarily the opinion of the Baylor Board of Regents of the Student Publications Board. Letters to the editor should include the writer’s name, major, graduation year, e-mail address, phone number, and phone number. Non-student writers should include their address. Letters that focus on an issue affecting students or faculty may be considered for a guest column at the editor's discretion.

All submissions become the property of the Baylor Lariat. The Lariat reserves the right to edit for grammar, style and length. Letters should be e-mailed to Lariat_letters@baylor.edu or mailed to One Bear Place #97310, Waco, TX 76799-7310.

A subscription to the Lariat costs $40 for two semesters. Send check or money order to One Bear Place #97310, Waco, TX 76799-7310.

For today’s crossword and sudoku answers, visit www.baylor.edu/Lariat.

Correction

In the Lariat November 29, 2007 issue, the first paragraph was incorrect. The sentence regarding people coming to America illegally from Mexico was not accurate. People who come to America illegally from Mexico are not removed from the United States immediately. Current policy states that these people can remain in the United States for up to 12 months. During this period, they may apply for legal status. If they are not granted legal status, they are removed from the United States. The Lariat regrets any confusion caused by this mistake.

People will continue to cross the Texas-Mexico border illegally until our national immigration situation at home is better. According to The World Factbook, half of the population of Mexico in 2002 was living in poverty or twenty percent were living on less than 2 a day.

We need to focus on the big picture and not just one immigration policy in relation to the Mexican borders that might alleviate the problem as a whole. Instead of focusing on single sector policies, micro credit helps countries generate income and create wealth by lending them small loans with manageable debt. Additionally, this reduces the economic strain on the border.

We want to solve the drug war by walking off the coast of Florida. It is the American government that requires more than a super liberal help. Our current president is solving the problem as a national security threat, dehumanizing illegal immigrants and putting them on the terror list. In 2005, Bush declared that the United States Immigration and Naturalization Services, which had been in existence for over 100 years, and had its functions over to the Department of Homeland Security. Under his administration, the Department of Homeland Security in 2004, illegal immigration has accelerated.

Policy Opinion

The Baylor Lariat welcomes new and contributing writers to the editor and guest columns.

The Baylor Lariat is not necessarily the opinion of the Baylor Board of Regents of the Student Publications Board. Letters to the editor should include the writer's name, major, graduation year, e-mail address, phone number, and phone number. Non-student writers should include their address. Letters that focus on an issue affecting students or faculty may be considered for a guest column at the editor's discretion.

All submissions become the property of the Baylor Lariat. The Lariat reserves the right to edit for grammar, style and length. Letters should be e-mailed to Lariat_letters@baylor.edu or mailed to One Bear Place #97310, Waco, TX 76799-7310.

A subscription to the Lariat costs $40 for two semesters. Send check or money order to One Bear Place #97310, Waco, TX 76799-7310.

For today’s crossword and sudoku answers, visit www.baylor.edu/Lariat.
Grateful attitude good for health, happiness, news

By Christopher Stone

In the midst of end-of-the-semester stress, it can become easy to look around the corners, many can already take the turkey and holy anticipation of the weekend.

But aside from near-term levels of stress and skill three, there is also a greater sense of gratitude that Thanksgiving provides.

As a psychology assistant professor of psychology and neuroscience, my students and I believe that gratitude is a skill that can be learned and developed.

A number of experiments have shown that grateful people are more likely to be happy, less stressed and more likely to have a positive outlook on life.

Paradoxically, individuals feel more hopeful and optimistic in situations that they are engaged in a gratitude exercise.

An often-cited study byemotions, which can be experienced through positive emotion.

Individually, individuals are instructed to reflect on a time when they were grateful. This is then followed by a 20-minute writing exercise, in which they write about a time in their life when they were grateful.

This writing exercise is then followed by a 20-minute writing exercise, in which they write about a time in their life when they were grateful.

The result? The people who engaged in the gratitude exercise were more likely to report feeling happier, more hopeful and less stressed.

So what can we do to cultivate a gratitude mindset?

One way to make this a feasible option.

To get started, you could try keeping a gratitude journal. In this journal, you could write about things you’re thankful for each day. This can help you to focus on the positive aspects of your life and to appreciate the good things in your life.

Another way to cultivate gratitude is to practice mindfulness. Mindfulness involves being present in the moment and focusing on your thoughts and feelings without judgment.

By practicing mindfulness, you can become more aware of the good things in your life and more likely to feel grateful.

In conclusion, gratitude is a skill that can be learned and developed. By cultivating a gratitude mindset, you can improve your well-being and happiness.

By Garrett Turner

The Make-A-Wish Foundation (MAW) is an organization that aims to grant the wishes of children with life-threatening illnesses. This includes a wide range of conditions, such as cancer, muscular dystrophy and cystic fibrosis.

The foundation was founded in 1980 by Audrey Hebert and Marv Siegel, two Los Angeles lawyers who wanted to help children with life-threatening illnesses.

Since then, MAW has granted more than 37,000 wishes to children in the United States and Canada. This includes wishes such as going to Disney World, meeting a celebrity or going on a dream vacation.

The organization relies on donations from individuals, corporations and foundations to fund its operations. In 2006, MAW received $50 million in donations.

Every year, MAW hosts a national conference for volunteers, donors and staff. This conference provides an opportunity for people to learn more about the organization and to get involved in its work.

The next national conference will be held in 2008 in Orlando, Florida. If you are interested in attending, you can find information about the conference on the MAW website.

In addition to its national conference, MAW also hosts regional conferences throughout the United States. These conferences provide an opportunity for people to learn more about the organization and to get involved in its work.

If you are interested in learning more about the Make-A-Wish Foundation, you can visit its website at www.wish.org.
SAKY from page 1

ave," defending his former colleague. Lon Fogleman said.

Regarding the level of income of other university presidents, he said, "the board of regents and the president have agreed upon a level of salary that both they and we, as the taxpayers, can live with as it is fair and justifiable in the context of the president’s role and responsibilities of the chief executive position at the university.

The tax form 990, which non-profit organizations are required to file and make transparent, revealed Baylor’s 2006 salary expenses of $3.9 million for the university president. That is significantly lower than the $10 million for the university president at Texas A&M University and $2 million for Louisiana State University.

Indeed, Brody, who is currently the first president listed alphabetically in the media dollar club, said he was one of the first — four counts of perjury, one of eight counts of obstruction of justice, and one count of conspiracy to commit wire fraud.

The indictment came just one day before the 2007 commencement when the Baylor president’s job was likely to have ended. He has been vice president of the American Council on Education for two years.

While Bob Alley and current Baylor president Ken Starr are friends, many believe that Bob Alley is considered by Bob Alley and current Baylor president Ken Starr to be friends, then they are friends, and many are considered by Bob Alley and current Baylor president Ken Starr to be friends, then they are friends, and many are considered by Bob Alley and current Baylor president Ken Starr to be friends, then they are friends, and many are considered by Bob Alley and current Baylor president Ken Starr to be friends, then they are friends, and many are considered by Bob Alley and current Baylor president Ken Starr to be friends, then they are friends, and many are considered by Bob Alley and current Baylor president Ken Starr to be friends, then t...
Dave Barnes concert comes to aid choir's cause today

By Karli Boessel Reporter

Dave Barnes will rock the Waco Hall stage today to raise money for the annual Baylor Religion and Music Hall choir’s mission trip to Africa.

Barnes is no stranger to Waco, though. He played at an Orange Kids benefit concert at the Hippodrome last year, as well as for a perform- ance at the Baylor Mall before he “came back,” Barnes said. “And since then, they’ve been more and more people there.”

Barnes said his songs in many ways student are their “passport to the world.”

“I think it’s college people that are thinking about the same things we are and experiencing a lot of the same things. I’m writing about,” he said.

Barnes has two full-length records, Brother, Bring the Sun and Clandestine Moon. He said he recently finished a new record, scheduled to be released in February 2008. The record retained the same musical style as the previous one but dealt strictly with new topics, Barnes said.

“At one point in time I made a record where everything was about my family and my friends, and then the majority of the songs are going to be about my all travels,” Barnes said. “It’s all coming from my time in Africa, things I have taken away from that.”

At the concert “Barnes will play any song he wants from the new record, but the majority of the songs will come from two other records,” Barnes said. “He said he’s been growing success with his work and more people are becoming interested in it.”

“Never cease to amaze me by the people listening to my music,” Barnes said.

Although he said the spread light can be uncomfortable at times, and he said he doesn’t think God made people with the capacity to be9 worthwhile. When he does have fans with it, he said he really isn’t to start calling people to me everywhere and pick you up.”

“Come hangout with me for like a day and a half,” Barnes said. “Maybe the first couple hours would be really cool, but then I really think you’ll start calling friends to me somewhere and pick you up,” he said.

“When I am listening to the music people have written about it’s really important to me that people know I’m a little bit like them,” Barnes said. “That’s one of the powers of music because it makes all feel the same.”

“Many Parish, lecturer in journalism and the BRL choir sponsor said the choir wanted to do something different as a fundraiser this year.”

“Want people to go, take a break from school and enjoy the music,” he said.

Barnes’ name came up several times while brainstorming the idea and worked out during a meeting in September.

“Got a good variety and great voice,” Parish said.

The BRH choir’s primary purpose is to be a ministry and they have a mission trip every year. In two years they have gone to Aus- tralia and India.

Dallas Jazz Sharp Dixon is the fundraising chair for the BRH choir and decided to have the concert as the fall fund-raising.

“Lament that Barnes had come before and I really liked it. I just thought it was thoroughly, but I think laid back kind of sound and it’s not personally appealing and every time and we all think it’s a little louder,” Parish said.

Ben Rector will open for Barnes. Rector has an acoustic style that complements Barnes, Parish said.

The concert is a 7 p.m today in Waco Hall. Tickets are $12 and available in Bill Daniel’s Student Union Building or at the door.

MOVIE TRIVIA

NEW RELEASES FOR TODAY

Love in the Time of Cholera

 mr. Magorium’s Wonder Emporium

Beowulf

Cast: Anthony Hopkins, John Malkovich, Angelina Jolie, Robin Wright Penn, Bob Hoskins, Crispin Glover

Story: Veteran New York Times journalist, Amos Tversky (Hoffman), is forced to confront the meaning of his life when a toy store owner, Morris Lurie (Jaffe), unexpectedly dies and leaves him his toy store. Public, Press and Audience Opinion: "Mr. Magorium’s Wonder Emporium" gets a "B" from CinemaScore.

Cast: Dustin Hoffman, Natalie Portman, James Nesbitt

Story: Molly (Hoffman) and her son, Jesse (Portman), manage the Won- der Emporium, the strangest, most unique toy store in the entire world, where anyone can make their deepest wishes come true. Kids, adults, and the whole town are enchanted by wonderful objects that "come to life" inside the store. Public, Press and Audience Opinion: "Mr. Magorium’s Wonder Emporium" gets a "B" from CinemaScore.
A Different 'Vetting' was coming under a grant that was contracted with his name on it. He was skeptical at first about return to its proper state.

Fogleman said the university, faculty-recommended books, faculty-written policy and legal affairs for the LifeWorks Foundation. Funding is supported under the structure of the Institute for Faith and Academic Outreach. In comments about the intelligent design debate, Kelley stated.

It should be an ongoing legal discussion that will enable them to go out there and make a difference.

The South Texas AdvoCy Program teaches students to synthesize complex problems, formulate sound arguments, and communicate on their feet. The Advocacy Program, ranked #1 in the nation by the national competition, produces graduates who are known for their clarity, strength, and intelligence. Their success is due to the quality of their training and the dedication of the faculty.

Admissions deadline for fall 2008 admission is February 15, 2008.

The Advocacy Program

A TEXAS LAW SCHOOL

CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

The South Texas AdvoCy Program teaches students to synthesize complex problems, formulate sound arguments, and communicate on their feet. The Advocacy Program, ranked #1 in the nation by the National Competition, produces graduates who are known for their clarity, strength, and intelligence. Their success is due to the quality of their training and the dedication of the faculty.

Admissions deadline for fall 2008 admission is February 15, 2008.

The Advocacy Program

A TEXAS LAW SCHOOL

CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

The South Texas AdvoCy Program teaches students to synthesize complex problems, formulate sound arguments, and communicate on their feet. The Advocacy Program, ranked #1 in the nation by the National Competition, produces graduates who are known for their clarity, strength, and intelligence. Their success is due to the quality of their training and the dedication of the faculty.

Admissions deadline for fall 2008 admission is February 15, 2008.

The Advocacy Program

A TEXAS LAW SCHOOL

CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

The South Texas AdvoCy Program teaches students to synthesize complex problems, formulate sound arguments, and communicate on their feet. The Advocacy Program, ranked #1 in the nation by the National Competition, produces graduates who are known for their clarity, strength, and intelligence. Their success is due to the quality of their training and the dedication of the faculty.

Admissions deadline for fall 2008 admission is February 15, 2008.

The Advocacy Program

A TEXAS LAW SCHOOL

CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

The South Texas AdvoCy Program teaches students to synthesize complex problems, formulate sound arguments, and communicate on their feet. The Advocacy Program, ranked #1 in the nation by the National Competition, produces graduates who are known for their clarity, strength, and intelligence. Their success is due to the quality of their training and the dedication of the faculty.

Admissions deadline for fall 2008 admission is February 15, 2008.

The Advocacy Program

A TEXAS LAW SCHOOL

CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

The South Texas AdvoCy Program teaches students to synthesize complex problems, formulate sound arguments, and communicate on their feet. The Advocacy Program, ranked #1 in the nation by the National Competition, produces graduates who are known for their clarity, strength, and intelligence. Their success is due to the quality of their training and the dedication of the faculty.

Admissions deadline for fall 2008 admission is February 15, 2008.

The Advocacy Program

A TEXAS LAW SCHOOL

CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

The South Texas AdvoCy Program teaches students to synthesize complex problems, formulate sound arguments, and communicate on their feet. The Advocacy Program, ranked #1 in the nation by the National Competition, produces graduates who are known for their clarity, strength, and intelligence. Their success is due to the quality of their training and the dedication of the faculty.

Admissions deadline for fall 2008 admission is February 15, 2008.

The Advocacy Program

A TEXAS LAW SCHOOL

CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

The South Texas AdvoCy Program teaches students to synthesize complex problems, formulate sound arguments, and communicate on their feet. The Advocacy Program, ranked #1 in the nation by the National Competition, produces graduates who are known for their clarity, strength, and intelligence. Their success is due to the quality of their training and the dedication of the faculty.

Admissions deadline for fall 2008 admission is February 15, 2008.

The Advocacy Program

A TEXAS LAW SCHOOL

CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

The South Texas AdvoCy Program teaches students to synthesize complex problems, formulate sound arguments, and communicate on their feet. The Advocacy Program, ranked #1 in the nation by the National Competition, produces graduates who are known for their clarity, strength, and intelligence. Their success is due to the quality of their training and the dedication of the faculty.

Admissions deadline for fall 2008 admission is February 15, 2008.