Scope and Content

The Alan W. Steelman papers contain materials from 1960-2003, the bulk of which are from 1973-1976: Steelman's time as U.S. Representative of Texas's Fifth Congressional District. The Administrative series consists of GOP office and district information, requests, and schedules. The Biographical section has background information on Steelman after his House race victory in 1973 and personal, family news articles from 1960-1969, and a folder of information on his Proudfoot leadership role. Campaigns holds news clippings, press releases, and campaign literature from two years: Steelman's 1972 House Campaign and his 1976 Senate Campaign. A large portion of the news clippings on the Senate campaign were originally in a binder.

Constituent correspondence are divided between, alpha, incoming, outgoing, and topical.

The Departments and Agencies series enumerates Steelman's contact with numerous federal agencies from 1973-1976. By far, the bulk of this series illuminates how Steelman voiced a variety of constituent concerns to the U.S. Postal Service. Also of note are recommendations written by Steelman on behalf of constituents to different federal departments such as the Department of Labor, Department of Justice, and the White House. The District series for Dallas highlights Dallas area concerns and contains photographs in the file on the Urban Park Baptist Singers. A Texas subseries of the District series mainly consists of materials on individual cities in Steelman's district, but also holds numerous folders on general affairs in Texas or local communities.

Next, Legislation by Committee encompasses bills from ten different Congressional committees. Legislation on banking and currency issues make up the largest subseries, followed by the Judiciary Committee subseries. The Judiciary Committee subseries chronicles sentiment in Steelman's district for and against bills on President Nixon's impeachment and the Watergate break in. Other notable subseries include: Government Operations, Interior & Insular Affairs (both of which Steelman served on) and the Cabinet Committee on Spanish Speaking People. Land use controversies dominates the subseries on Interior and Insular Affairs, just as revenue sharing does in the Government Operations subseries.

The Legislative series contains three subseries. Major topics in the 93rd Congress subseries include, ecology, the economy, commerce, Citizens Band radios, transportation, and FDA consumer vitamin labeling. Land use, conservation, the EPA, ecology, healthcare, transportation, and veterans issues prevail in the 94th Congress series. The Topical subseries in the Legislative series itemizes some of Steelman's highest legislative priorities: AMTRAK, Big Thicket, Energy, and the Trinity River. Binders also held these materials prior to processing. Here, the General sub-subseries contains legislative analysis from the American Enterprise Institute dated 1965-1967, though the rest of the sub-subseries consist of materials from 1973-1976.

The Columns, Magazines, and Newsletters subseries of the Press series are in poor condition. The Magazines subseries highlights Steelman's favorable reception by the mainstream Texas and American media upon his election and after his two terms in Congress. Steelman's Speeches and Floor Statements are in average condition and range from 1968 to his years after Congress. All of the post-Congressional speeches are undated and the majority of the speeches are from 1973. Additionally, most of the speeches were written on a typewriter with hand-written corrections. The Voting Record series retains alpha ordering by issue from the years 1973-1975. Steelman's voting by issue in 1976 is missing, but his roll call votes from 1973-1976 exist in this series. The Photographs in the Audio-Visual series largely came out of three notebooks. A little over half of the photographs are undated and many have negatives. A list of the monthly radio programs Steelman gave is at the front of the Reel-to-Reel subseries.

The Clippings series contains photocopied clippings and is in good condition. This series spans the years 1966-2002 and has four subseries: General, House Campaign, News Clippings Scrapbooks, and Senate Campaign. The General subseries consists of articles from Steelman's time as chair of the Dallas County Republican Party and the Dallas Council on World Affairs to his directorship of the Wyly Foundation and employment at the Alexander Proudfoot Company. The News Clippings Scrapbooks compass the years 1973-1976 and are oversized. Lastly, the Casework series ranges from 1975-1976.

Administrative/Biographical History

Alan Steelman (1942-) represented Texas's Fifth District from 1973-1976 in the U.S. House of Representatives as a Republican. He ran a distinctive "walking campaign" against incumbent Democrat Earle Cabell and won. At the date of his election, Nov. 7, 1972, Steelman was the youngest Republican member of the House at age 29 and earned a post-graduate fellowship at Harvard's Institute for Politics in late 1972. Steelman's Congressional career immediately blossomed. He was named one of TIME Magazine's "200 Emerging Young National Leaders" in 1974. While in Congress, Steelman served on two committees—Government Operations and Interior and Insular Affairs. Environmental issues were one area in which Steelman left his mark, particularly the fight against the Trinity River Canal and the formation of Big Thicket National Preserve. Other legislative priorities for Steelman included energy, transportation, veterans, wage and price controls, and Social Security.

His road to the House began with his upbringing in two towns in Arkansas: Arkadelphia and Fordyce. Steelman attended Baylor on a baseball scholarship and received his B.A. in Political Science in 1964. Next, he led the Republican Party of Dallas County from January 1966 to January 1969, and in 1971 graduated from Southern Methodist University with an M.L.A. During his leadership of the Dallas County Republicans, Steelman also remained executive director of the Sam Wylie Foundation of Dallas from January 1969-September 1969. President Richard Nixon appointed Steelman the executive director of the President's Advisory Council on Minority Business Enterprise in September 1969. Steelman held that post until he stepped down to run for Congress January 1972.

Steelman ran for the U.S. Senate as a Republican in 1976 and lost to Democratic incumbent Lloyd Bentsen. In 1977, he began work with the Alexander Proudfoot Company, a worldwide consulting firm listed on the London Stock Exchange. He has also served on the Texas Growth Fund Board, appointed by Governor George W. Bush to that $600 million venture capital fund run by the State of Texas. Other posts included Vice Chairman of the Board at the John Tower Center for Political Studies at SMU and the Trinity Foundation, Chairman of the Dallas Council on World Affairs, and former President of Maxager Technology, Inc. (now Profit Velocity Solutions), a private, California-based, software company.

While at Proudfoot, Steelman was Group President for the Asia-Pacific region. This enabled him to live in Singapore for eight years and build the Proudfoot start-up in that geographical area. Steelman oversaw the company's business interests in Malaysia, New Zealand, Australia, Indonesia, China, Korea, Taiwan, Japan, Hong Kong, and Thailand. He currently lectures on U.S.-Asia relations, drawing from his business experience in that part of the world.

Steelman is married to his wife Susan, the former Susan Seligman Fuller, and is father to five children: Robin Whitehead, Kim Cuban, Allison Carter, Alan Steelman Jr., and Alex Steelman. He has two stepchildren, Daniel Fuller and Elizabeth Fuller.

Series 4: Correspondence. 1972-1976, undated

Administrative/Biographical History

This series comprises the majority of Steelman's correspondence with constituents in four subseries by year: 1972-1973, 1974, 1975, 1976. Each subseries except the 1976 subseries contains four sub-subseries: Alpha, Incoming, Outgoing, and Topical. Incoming and Outgoing sub-subseries deal with praise, thanks, and congratulations to and from Steelman. The topical sections have letters on pertinent issues from that year, such as Steelman's controversial 1973 naming of the federal building in Dallas after his opponent in the 1973 Texas Fifth Congressional District race, Earle Cabell. This series is in good condition. Alphabetical ordering by the first two letters of the constituent's last name structures the 1973 correspondence. Incoming and outgoing correspondence for 1972-1973 mainly consists of thank you notes, praise, and congratulatory letters while the 1972-1973 topical subseries heavily leans towards Dallas Metroplex issues. The years of 1974-1976 mirror the 1972-1973 arrangement and thematic focus. 1976 correspondence lacks an alpha subseries.

Series 5: Departments and Agencies. 1973-1976

Administrative/Biographical History

This series includes Steelman's contact with various federal agencies and governmental departments arising from constituent concerns and recommendations for posts in the departments. It is alphabetically ordered according to folder title and/or department name. Prominent departments in this series are the U.S. Postal Service; Housing and Urban Development; Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW), and The White House. The series also contains a lone folder on housing in the State of Texas in 1975 and is in good condition.

Series 6: District. 1972-1976, undated

Administrative/Biographical History

This series encompasses Steelman's work in the Fifth Congressional District of Texas with two subseries: Dallas and Texas. The Dallas subseries contains materials on AMTRAK's service to that city, community activism, and records of Steelman's trips in January and February 1973. Particular localities, numerous industries (mining, air travel, tool manufacturing, food processing), and state and local relations figure prominently in the Texas subseries. This series remains in good condition.

Administrative/Biographical History

Three subseries—93rd Congress, 94th Congress, and Topical—reside in this series. It is the largest in the Steelman papers. These subseries were in binders prior to processing. In the 93rd Congress subseries, many folders center around the economy, Citizens Band radios, ecology, transportation, commerce, and FDA consumer vitamin labeling. Conservation, the EPA, healthcare, transportation, veterans issues, and ecology remain prominent in the 94th Congress series. Unique documents such as materials on urban homesteading and Guam's constitution are in the 93rd and 94th Congresses, respectively. Other interesting pieces comprise a bill brought to the floor of the 93rd Congress to make the marigold the U.S. national flower, and Steelman's baseball cards from his stint in the Congressional Baseball Game. Heavy sampling took place in the 94th Congress subseries. Moreover, a folder in 94th Congress entitled "Patriotism, 'Our United States-Help Save It' " contains a tape recording. A trio of folders on the elderly expound on Steelman's special concern for them, exhibited in photos in the A/V series of the papers. The Topical subseries contains five sub-subseries: General, Amtrak, Big Thicket, Energy, and Trinity River. These five sub-subseries chronicle the areas of expertise (and the largest issues) Steelman worked on during his four years in the U.S. Congress. The Big Thicket and Trinity River sub-subseries demarcate the two large conservation efforts he passed into law at the national level. This series remains in average condition.

Series 9: Press. 1973-1976, undated

Administrative/Biographical History

Overall, the Press series remains in good condition, though the Columns, Magazines, and Topical subseries are in poor condition compared to the Releases subseries. The Columns subseries contains articles written by and about Steelman. Steelman's achievements are highlighted in the Magazines subseries, which includes pieces on him from outlets such as TIME and the Harvard Political Review. The Releases subseries constitutes the largest part of the series and has alphabetical ordering according to the title of the release. A conglomeration of documents on subjects from Steelman's talking points to a pamphlet introducing Steelman from the first session of the 93rd Congress comprise the Topical subseries.

Series 10: Speeches and Floor Statements. 1964-1976, undated

Administrative/Biographical History

In average condition, the Speeches and Floor Statements series spans the length of Steelman's professional career before and during his time in the U.S. Congress and encompasses two subseries: Floor Statements and Speeches. The Floor Statements subseries has chronological ordering from 1973-1976 and the 1976 folder holds Steelman's appearances in the Congressional Record from that year. The Speeches subseries is in alphabetical order. His speech to the AFL-CIO and his pamphlet, "How to Be An Active Congressional Constituent" retain parts from his time as the chair of the Dallas County Republican Party.

Series 12: Audio/Visual. 1964-2001, undated

Summary Information

Media Cassette tape; Photo negative; Photographic print; Portrait photograph;
Reel to reel tapes

Administrative/Biographical History

The Audio/Visual series is divided into four subseries according to alpha ordering: Contact Sheets, Interviews, Photographs, and Reel-to-Reel Tapes. Steelman's interview on WRR's Robbi Wernick Program comprises the lone piece of the Interview subseries and is on cassette tape. The Photographs largely came out of three notebooks. Portraits (including a western-style one), family photos, slides, and photographs with Presidents Gerald R. Ford and George H.W. Bush are included in the Photographs subseries. The Reel-to-Reel Tapes subseries spans the year 1973 and were Steelman's radio updates of his positions on vital issues. Most of the shows are monthly episodes. Yellow official Congressional envelopes marked with a shortened version of the program title originally stored the reel-to-reel tapes (and one audio cassette)

Series 13: Clippings. 1966-2002

Administrative/Biographical History

The Clippings series contains four subseries: General, House Campaign, News Clippings Scrapbooks, and Senate Campaign. The General subseries was in the original inventory but the other three were created during processing. Steelman's post-Congressional work with the Alexander Proudfoot Company in 1989-1990 and the Dallas Council for World Affairs in 2000-2002 is highlighted in the General subseries, as is his pre-Congressional leadership of the Wyly Foundation (1969) and the Dallas County Republican Party (1966-1968). The House Campaign subseries is divided in three groups of months while the Senate Campaign subseries has three separate articles. Subdivided by year, the News Clippings Scrapbooks are in oversized boxes. This series is in good condition and most of the clippings have been copied.
