HIS 1300 U.S. in Global Perspective

Introduction to the history of the United States within a global context from 1776 to the present. Examines the ways a distinctly American society developed within larger patterns of world history. Themes explored may include nationalism; imperialism; revolution; concepts of democracy, freedom, and equality; migration and immigration; industrialization and economic systems; and global conflict.

for incoming freshmen - new Core Curriculum course

HIS 1305 World History to 1500

Principal civilizations of Asia, Africa, Europe, and the Americas from prehistory to about 1500 A.D., focusing on religious ideas, patterns of economic and cultural development, and artistic and literary achievements of these civilizations, as well as their influences on one another.

HIS 1307 World History since 1500

History of major world civilizations and the growth of the modern global community as well as the spread of ideologies and cultures.

HIS 2365 History of the United States to 1877

A chronological, thematic, and analytical study of the political, economic, social, cultural, and diplomatic history of the United States from colonial origins and early nationhood through the era of Reconstruction.

HIS 2366 History of the United States since 1877

A chronological, thematic, and analytical study of the political, economic, social, cultural, and diplomatic history of the United States from the end of Reconstruction to the present.

History of Warfare

An Introduction to Military History

Dr. David A. Smith
M/W/F 9:05-9:55

From the Greek phalanx to Cyber Warfare, this course is an introduction to the field of military history. We will cover the evolution of war on land and at sea, the influence of technology through the ages, and read some classics of military history and theory.
Study Eurasia from 1683 to 1913: Diplomacy, Demography, Dostoevsky

Slavic Studies engages students in the history of Eurasia, a region where conflicts over nationalism, religion, and state modernization efforts played out more often than anywhere else in Europe from 1683 to 1913. Culturally, the course engages the heights of the Slavic output in the 19th century, including Dostoevsky, Tolstoy, and Chopin, as well as the rich popular culture of folklore. Slavic Studies simulates the conflict and diplomacy among imperial states and national movements that changed Slavs’ presence on the map of Europe. The course will make connections where themes continue to resonate in national cultures and politics in the 21st century.

History 4385: The United States in the Sixties

TR 12:30-1:45 p.m.

Get on the bus, if you need an advanced U.S. history course to complete your major, or just an advanced elective to fulfill your degree requirements! We’ll have a groovy thing going on in Tidwell this fall that you might find relevant. Students from a previous time this course was taught participated in the annual Baylor Homecoming Parade (pictured above) and won the Noze Brotherhood’s “Best Use of a Non-Baylor Theme” Award.

Lectures, readings, and rap sessions will focus on four major topics—(1) national politics; (2) movements for social justice; (3) foreign policy; and (4) the counterculture—and will be supplemented by documentary video and movie footage as well as lots of music both live and recorded. Hey, Jude, don’t be afraid! Come on and “let the sun shine in.” Who knows—you might even find yourself sitting next to “Sunshine Superman” or “the girl with kaleidoscope eyes.”
