

A student is defined as anyone enrolled for course credit at Baylor and is not classified as an employee. During the Summer terms if a student is not enrolled in courses, but has not graduated, they are still considered a student.

Payments made to students will be requested and processed based on type:

TYPE	DEFINITION	PROCESS
Services	Payment for work performed by a student	Route to Student Employment
Business Reimbursements (Student Employee)	Reimbursements for expenses incurred on behalf of the University when there is a direct connection between the expense and the business purpose of the University Example: Travel associated with their job at Baylor	Process through Procure to Pay using an Expense Report
Business Reimbursements (Non-Student Employee)	Reimbursements for expenses incurred on behalf of the University when there is a direct connection between the expense and the business purpose of the University Example: Athletic competitions, study abroad or mission trips.	Process through Procure to Pay using a Payment Request Requisition
Research Participation	Payments to students for participating in a research study conducted by the University	Process through Procure to Pay using a Payment Request Requisition
Prizes & Awards	*Payments, prizes or winnings because of enrollment at the University for the purpose of aiding a student's study, training or research. Examples: Fellowships, prizes, awards, cash-based prize, gift cards or educational supplies, travel grants for paper presentations or conferences.	Route to Financial Aid

*Payments are considered financial aid if any of the following apply:

- ✓ The recipient is required to use the disbursement for educational purposes.
- ✓ The recipient is eligible to receive the funding because he/she is a student.
- ✓ The activity is related to a student's university courses or degree completion.

Payments to students require special attention and monitoring due to the potential tax implications, federal financial aid compliance, or both.
