A poignant illustration of this biblical verse unfolded early in September 2021 when Baylor Law celebrated the 20th Anniversary of the opening of the Sheila & Walter Umphrey Law Center, and in the days immediately following mourned the passing of Walter Umphrey.

Dean Brad Toben reflected, “Through the years, Walter and Sheila, quietly and outside the view of the public, have been in the business of creating opportunity—especially educational opportunity—for others. They recognize how they have been blessed, and in turn, they have returned that blessing to others. Walter often noted that their philanthropy to Baylor Law was, as he put it, “the best money that Sheila and I have ever spent,” because it was for education.

In both celebration of Walter and Sheila (married 61 years!) and to honor our collective history, Baylor Law asks that you buttress Walter and Sheila’s philanthropic commitment to the law center that reflects the excellence of our program and—so important, indeed critical—law student scholarships. Your generosity will support critical law student scholarship needs and capital updates to the Sheila and Walter Umphrey Law Center. The updates will provide additional, dedicated space to vital student services, and to academic and career support.

Will you join the legacy of Walter and Sheila’s commitment to Baylor Law? All gifts ensure the continued excellence and vitality of Baylor Law’s renowned programs as we embark on our second century of training generations of Baylor Lawyers.

A Message from
Dean Toben
“... in everything give thanks; for this is God’s will for you in Christ Jesus.”

– 1 Thessalonians 5:18

At Baylor Law, we stress to our students that lawyering is about solving human problems and meeting human challenges. These problems and challenges arise from all manner of human endeavor. A family is breaking apart. An insurer denies a claim. A client’s liberty may be at stake. A business is failing. A landowner’s access to water is impaired.

Even the positive events of human endeavor often call for the acumen, skills, and counseling of lawyers. A patent application is filed. A business start-up needs capital. A couple adopts a child. An entrepreneur acquires land for development. A client provides for his or her family’s future through estate planning.

The problems and challenges that require the skills of a lawyer are innumerable. At Baylor Law, we enjoy seeing our former students—Baylor Lawyers—serve in a panoply of capacities in the public and private sectors. Through selfless service and through leadership—two themes that are integral to our work with, and messaging to, our students—we prepare our students to step into a profession. Ours is a profession in which we serve with the imprimatur of the state. Baylor Lawyers are positive contributors to the human condition. They leave indelible marks on those whom they serve and lead. In doing so, they strengthen the fabric of our society and nation. And...that is a need now felt acutely.

This issue of the Docket Call brings together our tribute to those who as servants invest in our school and our students. Our work, and that of our students, would not be possible without the selfless dedication of our alumni and friends who make what we do at Baylor Law possible. And what we do is effectively and consistently prepare lawyers who recognize that to be a lawyer is a calling—a calling to serve and a calling to lead no matter where one’s life journey goes.

“Service is the rent we pay for being. It is the very purpose of life, and not something you do in your spare time.”

– Marian Wright Edelman
Founder of the Children’s Defense Fund

Over the past years significant progress has been made in undergirding the financial resources of Baylor Law, and we continue to strive towards our goal of making Baylor Law a school where any qualified student can attend, regardless of financial condition. We are not there yet, but we will persist.

Our goal with this issue is to simply say, ‘thank you.’ Thank you for supporting our students, our faculty, and our many programs.

Please enjoy this issue of Docket Call.

A Friendship Forged Via a Baylor Law Scholarship

JUDGE A. LEE HARRIS
JUDGE JIM CLAWSON
For the Honorable A. Lee Harris, the donor who helped make his dream of becoming a lawyer a reality is far more than a name on a scholarship letter. Thanks to a providential meeting at a conference in San Antonio, Harris is now a friend, and mentee, of Judge Jim Clawson, Jr., the generous sponsor and namesake of the James F. and Mary Louise Clawson Baylor Law School Scholarship Fund.

After graduating from Baylor Law in 1993, Harris began working as a litigator in the firm of Moore & Harris. From 1999 to 2005, he served as District Attorney Pro Tem of Hill County. During his tenure in Hill County, he prosecuted more than 600 felony cases.

Then, the scholarship recipient who received his Baylor Law education thanks in part to the generous financial support of a Texas state district court judge, became a judge himself. From 2005 until late 2014, Harris served as the first judge of the County Court at Law of Hill County, Texas. On the first day of 2015, Harris assumed the duties of being judge of the 66th Judicial District Court of Hill County.

For years, both during and after leaving Baylor Law, Judge Harris had attempted to send notes of appreciation to Judge Clawson. Letter after letter was returned by the U.S. Postal Service: unable to deliver, no forwarding address. The Clawsons had moved—and in the days before the internet, both the State Bar’s ‘Blue Book,’ and Baylor Law’s alumni directory did not have Clawson’s new address.

More than a dozen years after graduating from Baylor Law, Judge Harris met Judge Clawson unexpectedly at a judicial education conference in San Antonio. The conference was the first for Harris, having recently been appointed to the bench.

Harris recalled, “I see this gentleman coming. We’re going to pass each other, and I see ‘Jim Clawson’ on his name tag, and I just turned around. I caught up with him and I said... ‘Can we sit down and talk a minute? I’ve got something I’ve been wanting to tell you for many years.’” During this first of many heart-to-heart conversations, Judge Harris shared with Judge Clawson just how much his scholarship had meant to him. As a first-generation college graduate, a scholarship was his only chance of graduating from law school without incurring burdensome debt. Harris shared about his career, his new role as a judge, and the wonderful life his family was enjoying thanks to his Baylor Law degree and Judge Clawson’s generosity. Judge Harris recalls telling Clawson, “I cannot imagine what my life would have been like, had I not taken this step to go to law school.”

Excited to hear this news, Judge Clawson asked, “Would you mind sitting down and writing what you just told me to my wife? Mary always thought I spent her bread-and-butter money on that scholarship.” Harris willingly obliged and his letter to Mrs. Clawson was the next step in a lifelong friendship between the Harris and Clawson families. “It was a powerful letter because Mary became immediately as enthusiastic about that scholarship as I was,” recalled Judge Clawson, “And it became a real family project from that day forward. We never had any more difficulty with me sending money to the scholarship.”

From that moment forward, Judge Harris routinely stopped and visited with the Clawsons when passing through Temple. He met with Judge Clawson at various judicial events and made it a priority to visit Mary on multiple occasions when she sadly fell terminally ill in 2012.

Inspired by the generosity of the Clawsons, in 2007, Harris took it upon himself to rally the recipients of the Clawson Scholarship to make a special gift to increase the endowment of Judge Clawson’s scholarship. Judge Harris asserts, “My parents had a very nice life. They worked very hard. They put a lot of their savings back—so they wouldn’t be a burden to anyone in their older age—but they certainly weren’t gifted with the type of education I’ve had and were not able to have the type of life that I do. I mean, everyone wants their kids to do better than them, and it’s very humbling when you realize how good a lifestyle you’ve been able to lead. The only thing I can attribute it to is Baylor Law. To not give back would be about as un-Christian as anything I can think of.”

Several years after rallying the recipients of the Clawson Scholarship, Harris and his wife Holly, herself an ‘adopted’ Baylor Bear, made the decision to establish their own scholarship to create a foundation of support for future Baylor Lawyers—the endowed Judge Lee and Holly Harris Scholarship at Baylor Law.
Born in Coryell County to James F. and Julia Josephine Clawson, Judge Jim Clawson, Jr., was one of fourteen children in a blended family. From a young age, he was determined to obtain an education. His plans were interrupted with the outbreak of World War II, and he enlisted in the United States Army Air Corps. At the end of the war, and with the G.I. Bill available as a scholarship, Judge Clawson was able to attend Baylor Law and proudly earned his law degree in 1948. After passing the Texas Bar exam that same year, he joined his brother’s firm of Clawson, Jennings, & Clawson in Houston. Clawson practiced for 11 years in general civil law before moving on to the First National Bank of Temple as a trust officer and banker. In 1967, the presiding judge in Bell County retired and the Commissioners Court asked Clawson to fill the role. He agreed and held the role for two years after running unopposed for the county judge position in 1968. He was appointed judge of the 169th District Court in October of 1969. He was elected, and re-elected, again unopposed, for 15 years until retiring in October of 1985. He was then appointed presiding judge in the 3rd Administrative Judicial Region of Texas, a role he held for five years. He has elected to remain active subject to assignment as a Senior District Judge to the present day. In addition to his work in private practice and on the bench, he has held leadership roles with the State Bar of Texas and the Texas Bar Foundation.

When Judge Clawson and Mary counted their blessings, they always traced the line of success directly back to Baylor Law. Filled with deep gratitude for his education and esteem for the caliber of lawyers who graduate from Baylor Law, Judge Clawson was eager to establish a scholarship. He recalls, “I remember that I was so grateful to the Law School for what it had done for me, I made up my mind that I was going to give Baylor Law some money at least once a year. Sometimes it was only $10, but I always gave something.” As he and his wife Mary hadn’t accumulated many assets, the thought of endowing a full scholarship seemed out of reach. However, in 1985, through the help of the dean of the Law School at the time, Charles Barrow, the Clawsons discovered that they could donate a four-acre parcel of land that they had inherited to begin their legacy of impacting generations through the James F. and Mary Louise Clawson Baylor Law School Scholarship Fund.

Judge Clawson and Judge Harris are now working on plans to invite every one of the recipients of the James F. and Mary Louise Clawson Baylor Law School Scholarship Fund to a special reception to get to know them better and potentially establish a mentoring program for new and future Baylor Lawyers.

Judge Harris reiterated, “I make sure the first 10% I write every month goes to my church, but you know, the next check I write goes to Baylor Law. I received a scholarship while I was in law school and that scholarship wasn’t taken out of thin air. It was literally something that someone else made possible. To not give back would be kind of a personal embarrassment to me.”

Baylor Law’s Registrar, Jerri Cunningham, Recognized for Service to the National Network of Law School Officers

Jerri Cunningham, Baylor Law’s long-serving registrar, was recognized by the National Network of Law School Officers (NNLSO) for her years of service to the organization. Jerri has served as the Executive Director of NNLSO since 2017. She served as the Assistant Executive Director for nine years prior to assuming the Executive Director role.

Baylor Law’s Jenny Branson named the 2021 Outstanding Young Lawyer of McLennan County

Assistant Dean of Admissions and Financial Aid Jenny Branson was selected by the Waco-McLennan County Young Lawyers Association (WMCYLA) as the Outstanding Young Lawyer of McLennan County for 2021.
Changes have taken place at Baylor Law as the Law School welcomed a highly credentialed fall entering class. Dean Leah Teague, JD ’85, has return to a full-time faculty position while holding the inaugural position of Director of Business Law Programs at Baylor Law. In this role, she will elevate and strengthen our business and transactional programs’ national profile. In addition, Baylor Law is at the vanguard of a national movement to incorporate leadership training into the law school experience, and Dean Teague will now focus additional time and resources on growing this national movement while at the same time continuing to serve on committees and in leadership roles at Baylor University.

“I am blessed beyond measure to be a member of the Baylor Law family! It has been my honor and my privilege to work alongside Dean Toben for almost 30 years to lead in the role of associate dean. After much prayerful consideration, I decided to step down from that position to consider how I might best serve Baylor Law in the coming years,” said Dean Teague. She added, “This transition will allow me more time to work on areas that are near and dear to my heart. I believe enhancing these areas is vitally important to the future of Baylor Law and the legal profession.”

“I have been deeply privileged to serve with Leah over these past three decades,” stated Dean Toben. “We have been able to work together with our wonderful faculty and staff colleagues to advance Baylor Law’s profile in our advocacy, transactional, legal writing, and criminal law programming. Through everyone’s work, our students have the benefit of a significantly expanded faculty and staff team and a dynamic curriculum with many professional tracks. We have a wide array of opportunities in our many-award-winning pro bono and public service programs, and of course, our students have continued to make us proud in their bar exam performance and work in the profession alongside our Baylor Law alumni community.”
I am confident that Leah will thrive in her work in our business law programming and in her work on the national level in leadership development studies. Leah and I have been a team for a long time, but change comes inevitably,” said Dean Toben.

Baylor Law has been an outlier in legal education in having an associate dean who oversees three distinct constituency sectors—faculty, staff, and student affairs. Dean Teague has done this, remarkably, for her entire tenure. These multi-faceted duties have been divided into two separate positions.

“I have been deeply privileged to serve with Leah over these past three decades.”

— Brad Toben
Dean of Baylor Law

Patricia Wilson, a member of Baylor Law’s faculty since 1993, now serves as Associate Dean, with responsibilities focusing on academic-related matters involving faculty and students. Upon announcing Dean Wilson’s new role, Dean Toben remarked, “Pat is a wonderfully effective and resourceful colleague who enjoys the respect of all her faculty and staff colleagues.” Dean Wilson currently serves as the Regional Representative for Region 10 for the National Association of Legal Advocacy Educators (NALAE), is actively involved in the Cooperative Baptist Fellowship, is a trained mediator, and is actively involved in the Waco community and her church. She is the driving force behind Baylor Law’s successful annual community event, the People’s Law School, and is a former licensed foster parent who fostered 20 children over the course of a decade.

Angela Cruseturner, JD ’02, Baylor Law’s long-time Assistant Dean of Career Development, was named as Senior Assistant Dean. She takes on additional administrative responsibilities and leads on matters relating to staff and the student experience. “Angela is tireless in her dedication to the success of our students and in her dedication to furthering the goals of Baylor Law. Our student employment outcomes have been enviable,” said Dean Toben. Dean Cruseturner was honored as the 2020 Young Baylor Lawyer of the Year and under her direction, Baylor Law’s Career Development Office has posted record employment statistics for recent graduates. The Professional Development Program she spearheaded has been recognized as one of the premier professional formation programs in the nation.

Chris Jaeger
Assistant Professor

Professor Jaeger teaches contracts and researches and writes about the intersection of law and psychology. He comes to Baylor Law from the NYU School of Law faculty and holds a Ph.D. in psychology from Vanderbilt University.

Allen Page
Assistant Professor

Baylor Law welcomed Becky Powell and Baylor Lawyers Monte James, JD ’92, and Bill Jones, JD ’85, as they recounted the unthinkable and evocative story of Becky’s book, Awful Beautiful Life. After learning that her husband had taken his life and millions of dollars from friends and colleagues, Becky—with the help and guidance of two Baylor Lawyers—embarked on an inspirational journey to put the pieces back together.
Now in its sixth year, the Business Law Boot Camp is an intensive, week-long course held between the spring and summer quarters directed by Professor Elizabeth Miller, JD ’85. The course—underwritten by Kim and Bill Shaddock, JD ’77, and sponsored by Haynes and Boone, and Greg Looser, JD ’94—exposes students to practitioners from varied size firms, geographic areas, and backgrounds. These practitioners provide a wealth of advice and insight to professional paths of Transactional Law.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Josh Fogelman, JD ’08, and Aaron Von Flatern, JD ’09, founders of FVF Law—sponsor of the Baylor Law/TYLA legal writing competition The Paper Chase—shared their insight with Baylor Law students on what to look for in a first job, how to stand out once there, and how to shape their own client-centric approach to the practice of law.
The Summit Cup Mock Trial Competition
The team of Rodrigo Carbajal, Kristopher Ruiz, and Emma Vyncke won second place at The Summit Cup Mock Trial Competition hosted by the University of Denver Sturm College of Law. The team was coached by Baylor Lawyers Alli Szabo, JD ’20, and Colin O’Neill, JD ’85.

The Battle of the Experts Mock Trial Competition
The team of Lexie Ammons, Catherine Helm, Andrew Patterson, and Daniela Vakulchik finished in third place at The Battle of the Experts mock trial competition, hosted by Drexel Kline School. The team was coached by Baylor Lawyers Cahal McColgan, JD ’15, and Mark Altman, JD ’16.

When Facts Become Figures
BY CHASE BAUMGARTNER, 3L AT BAYLOR LAW

Law students love the facts of the case. It's the story you get to tell as you steady your breath and prepare for the onslaught of questions your professor has prepared for as you stand, exposed and vulnerable, in front of your classmates. In practice, these facts of the case are given a new name: clients.

This summer, I had the privilege to assist nine low-income, Texas clients through my internship with the Innocence Project of Texas. All of these clients shared a commonality in their cases, they have maintained their innocence despite being adjudicated as guilty. To help the falsely incarcerated, the Texas legislature enacted Chapter 64 of the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure to allow for post-conviction DNA testing. The thinking being that if the source of crucial biological evidence was determined not to exclude the convicted person, then the wrong person had been punished for the crime. While the legislature gave defendants this powerful tool, the legislature also placed a number of requirements about the condition and relevance of the evidence that must be met in order for the court to grant DNA testing. My duties this summer were largely to review client files for evidence that would meet these requirements and obtain a court order mandating that DNA testing be conducted.

This review included reading the laboratory reports, examining the evidence that was tested, the evidence that was not tested, the techniques used, and ultimately the results of the analysis. Then a lengthy review of the trial transcript crafted a fuller picture of what and how the evidence was used against the client. I never expected that a simple DNA test could have identified the perpetrator in nearly half of the cases I reviewed.

The first case was a sexual assault from the late 1980’s in which semen was indicated on the victim’s body but was unable to be compared to the DNA of the defendant at the time of trial due to the infancy of DNA analysis. Without any scientific evidence, the State relied on the victim’s identification of the defendant. Unfortunately, the victim had been blindfolded for the entirety of the assault. While no doubt performing her best, there is obvious concern over the reliability of her later identification of the defendant from a photo-lineup from inside the police station. Armed with this information, I drafted a motion for the court to grant DNA testing in order to corroborate or refute the blindfolded complainant’s victim’s identification.

Another defendant was implicated by a laboratory report that stated his DNA was found on a handgun used in a murder. In 2009, the laboratory reports supported that our client’s DNA was on a weapon. In 2020, the lab issued a new report saying that the DNA profile could not be interpreted under new protocols and reported the profile as inconclusive. After reviewing the laboratory’s current guidelines in the summer of 2021, I discovered that if the laboratory were to issue a new report, the DNA profile would actually exclude the defendant. I helped draft a motion to order the lab to re-report the DNA profile under 2021 guidelines, and we were able to obtain a DNA report that stated that the lab no longer believed the evidence supported the opinion that our defendant’s DNA was on the weapon.

Another case involved a man convicted of a brutal murder in the early 1990’s. The main physical evidence used against him at trial was a bloody jacket. The blood on the jacket was determined to be the same ABO blood type as the complainant. However, about half of the population at large also have that same blood type. To corroborate the weak scientific evidence, the State sponsored an eyewitness to the murder who testified that it was dark, he was a distance away from the crime, and he was high on Quaaludes at the time. A DNA test that could confirm or refute that the blood on the jacket belonged to the complainant could clear this matter up.

Unfortunately, the jacket had been lost for years. It was only by carefully reading a laboratory report, that I discovered the lab had taken and retained cuttings of the bloodstains from the jacket. I drafted an open-records request to the lab that my supervising attorney sent. The response came back: the lab still had the cuttings from the bloodstains available to test. While a far cry from proving the defendant’s innocence, without this evidence, it would have been an impossibility. My supervising attorney requested I call the defendant and share the good news.

Upon hearing the news, the defendant stated that he had been praying for this for a long time. The tone of his voice was that this news was an answer to those prayers. Law students can think they’re prepared for the rigors and stress of law school and being a lawyer, but no one warns you of the responsibility you’ll feel when you become someone’s angel. It’s an emotional moment when the facts of the case become figures in your life. I was privileged and honored to be a valuable part of a few of these clients’ stories, if even just for a summer.

Remembering
WALTER UMPHREY
1936 – 2021
BAYLOR LAW CLASS OF 1965

America lost a once in a generation trial lawyer on September 7, 2021. More than that, the world lost a larger than life Texan who was an entrepreneur, businessman, banker, conservationist, political activist, philanthropist, mentor, sportsman, friend, husband, father, and grandfather. Walter Umphrey is survived by his loving wife and partner of over sixty-one years, Sheila. He also is survived by his son Bart and daughter-in-law Laurie, and his daughter Paige and son-in-law Darren. Walter and Sheila have eight grandchildren whom they love dearly: Brooke, Macy, Luke Thomas, Lindsay, Randy, Madison, Cooper, and Jaclyn.

Thomas Walter Umphrey was born May 13, 1936 in Port Arthur, Texas, and passed away peacefully at the age of 85. Born of modest means, Walter embarked upon a journey to fulfill his life’s passions leaving behind many friends, a loving family, and a legal legacy which literally changed the world. Anywhere this force of nature went, he made lifelong friends. Whether it was the best of times or the worst of times, Walter never forgot his friends or where he came from. Following graduation from Thomas Jefferson High School and with a scholarship in hand, Walter set off to SMU to play the sport that he loved his whole life—football. Walter believed that all sports instilled a form of discipline necessary to succeed in life. At one point in this vibrant journey, Walter drove to Crystal Beach to meet a beautiful, intelligent, and spirited young lady named Sheila McCarthy. They married in 1960 and Sheila quickly became an integral part of the Umphrey family success. It is this true love partnership that guided them through the years.

Between college and law school, Walter earned tuition money by working as an insurance adjuster. It was during this time that a mantra was forged deep inside of him. He vowed to never represent an insurance company when he became a lawyer. He wanted to help the underdog. He also forged an unbroken bond with Baylor Law. Walter and Sheila loved Baylor Law passionately.

“Walter had a rough exterior and a ‘brass tacks’ demeanor. That exterior was matched with a heart of empathy and understanding for the plight of the less fortunate. The likes of Walter will not pass this way again.”

— Brad Toben
Dean of Baylor Law

Sheila even worked at a Waco bank to make sure the tuition was paid. Fifty years later, the great Baylor Law center bears their name. To paraphrase Bobby Kennedy, some people see things as they are and ask why, Walter looked at the world and asked why not? He then stormed into action. Why not justice for all? Walter spent his entire legal career fighting for the rights of the marginalized and disenfranchised, giving convincing voice to the powerless. He was their champion for justice. Why not opportunity for all? Walter fought for anyone, regardless of where they started, to have the God given right to work hard and succeed. He did not care about a person’s background but only that they were passionate about issues and they valued hard work to get great results.

Why not bring jobs and economic opportunity to Southeast Texas? Against all odds, Walter and Sheila built successful banks, real estate developments, decorating companies, car and motorcycle dealerships, and nurseries and greenhouses that sold plants and flowers all over the world. And of course the law firm that started in a small office off 39th Street in Port Arthur with David Provost and whose impact and victories literally changed the legal landscape-worldwide.

After law school, Walter worked for the Jefferson County District Attorney’s office advancing quickly to Chief felony prosecutor putting the most violent criminals away. There he learned how to try cases. He understood the 7th Amendment and its guarantee of the right to trial by jury. And juries so loved Walter. His imposing presence and down to earth demeanor led juries to listen and act on what Walter needed them to do.

In the 70’s and 80’s, Walter led the law firm Provost Umphrey in taking on the asbestos and benzene industries. He and the firm fought tooth and nail for the victims and their families. In the end, the action of Walter and Provost Umphrey led to the establishment of protections for the workers of those industries. Walter also fought for unions and their workers, helping thousands earn a fair wage and enjoy a safer workplace.

In the 1960’s through the 1980’s, representing injured people was not popular among rich and elite lawyers and representing the poor and disenfranchised was looked upon equally disapprovingly.
These lawyers put up every hurdle imaginable against Walter. But Walter never cared what others said or thought. The barriers thrown his way motivated him further to stand up and speak louder for the injured and unfortunate. He lived his legal life according to Sam Houston’s mantra, “Do right and risk consequences.” He stood up for cancer victims, burn victims, refinery victims, maritime accident victims, as well as those who were discriminated against on the basis of race, sex, age, or religion. If the law said that an employer could penalize their employees unfairly, Walter would instruct his own lawyers to, “Go change the law so that folks are treated right.” He didn’t care what the costs were. He simply wanted justice to prevail.

Walter won every honor that a legal legend could receive—far too many to list—but Walter didn’t care much for individual accolades. All he cared about was that he was a trial lawyer from Southeast Texas who never stopped fighting for justice.

In the 1990’s, the state of Texas came calling, looking for a transformational leader to take on the undefeated tobacco industry. Walter asked his firm who wanted to put up millions in expenses and years of work to take on an industry that had never paid a dime in settlements. The answer was thunderous silence, but no lawyer could turn down Walter on this historic fight. Walter was never one to walk away from a challenge to justice regardless of the cost. Walter put together and led a Dream Team to take on Big Tobacco and it was a monumental battle. The effort required tens of millions of dollars, moving away from Southeast Texas for years, and battling the toughest and richest legal opponent in the world. The end result was that the citizens of the State of Texas received a world record 17.1 billion dollar settlement and the industry changed their advertising practices for the better—goodbye Joe Camel.

This benefited every Texan. Walter did right and risked the consequences. Before Warren Buffet’s call to give back to the community, Walter was already giving. There were public donations that benefited the entire community and donations to needy folks that were never publicized. Walter had a heart of gold and led with philanthropic gifts which greatly impacted Southeast Texas. When Lamar University wanted to bring back football, the band, women’s soccer, and softball, as well as transform itself into a top tier university, Walter, Sheila and Provost Umphrey Law Firm led the way with significant donations. This resulted in Provost Umphrey Stadium and the Sheila Umphrey Recreational Center. Tens of thousands of students continue to benefit from their generosity.

When Baylor Law was looking to provide a first-class facility for its students, Walter and Sheila led the way. Their generous donation allowed Baylor Law to build the breathtaking Sheila and Walter Umphrey Law Center—educating the best and the brightest on the banks of the Brazos River. When Baylor University built a new football stadium for the Baylor Bears, Walter and Sheila’s generosity literally built a bridge over the Brazos to that sparkling new stadium.

Walter was an avid sportsman. When his friend, Governor Ann Richards, appointed him to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, Walter passionately fought for the rights of hunters and fisherman while maintaining a healthy wildlife population. He loved this job. When he saw that Southeast Texas needed better fishing facilities, Walter and Sheila led the way. They purchased land off Mesquite Point in Port Arthur and donated it to the public. The result—the Walter Umphrey State Park. Thousands of fisherman use these facilities every year.

When bass fisherman found the perfect land on Lake Sam Rayburn to create a pavilion and park that could host national tournaments, Walter and Sheila led the way. Their lead gift and the fundraising that followed led to the building of the Umphrey Family Pavilion. Walter and Sheila enjoyed Lake Rayburn so much that they invested greatly in the upgrade of Rayburn Country’s golf course, restaurant, and other facilities.

Walter had a saying, “I’ve never seen a hearse with a U-Haul behind it,” and believed that money was a means to an end to transform people and communities for the better. Wherever Walter saw a need, he not only answered the call, he led others. Inactivity was not in Walter’s DNA. In a sports analogy, Walter believed in giving everything you have to a project—leave it all on the field. The many philanthropic gifts of Sheila and Walter Umphrey will live on and benefit millions forever.

Walter was a boy from Port Arthur, Texas, that worked his way into advising presidents, senators, governors, NFL & MLB team owners, sports stars, CEO’s, and even a queen. He built a successful law firm, banks, ranches, nurseries and greenhouses, and so much more. More importantly though, Walter built relationships and lifelong friends. He was able to relate to everyone because of his common humanity. Walter never forgot where he came from and he and Sheila never forgot their friends or their hometown area. Walter kept the faith. He was a trail-blazing champion of the working man. Thomas Walter Umphrey was a once in a generation, transformational leader. This world will never see another like him.
Walter Hugh Harrell, JD ’50, of Lubbock, was born May 29, 1924, in Waco, Texas, to his parents Walter and Eula Harrell and passed away on March 30, 2021, in Longview, Texas.

Hugh was a World War II veteran serving his country as a surgical tech in Paris, France. After the war, he graduated in 1950 with his law degree from Baylor Law. In 1951, Hugh moved to Lubbock, Texas, and set up his own law firm—practicing there from 1951-2014. He participated in the community serving on the Board of Directors at Girl’s Town located in Whiteface, Texas, and was active in the Lubbock Kiwanis Club. Later, he assisted young law students by holding Mock Court at Texas Tech University.

Hugh had two great loves in his life: his wife, Dorothy and all things Baylor Bears. He met the love of his life, Dorothy Howell, whom he married in 1955, sharing 65 years of happy marriage. The couple raised their three children in Lubbock. They were long time members of the First Baptist Church of Lubbock. Hugh passed down his interest of hunting, fishing, and playing tennis to his children. He enjoyed coaching Dixie Little League baseball and basketball. Hugh and Dorothy enjoyed being with their Lubbock friends playing bridge and dancing the night away in the Terpsichorean Dance Club. They enjoyed traveling the world taking cruises and tours.

Robert Louis “Bob” Schwarz, JD ’55, passed away on July 21 at his home in Belton, Texas. He was born to Billie Irene (McCaslin) and Arthur Edgar Schwarz on November 29, 1929, at his grandparents’ home in Mercedes, Texas. He was raised on a farm owned by his father and grandfather and spent countless hours working on the farm. He graduated from Mercedes High School in 1948. During the summer of 1949, a young ministerial student from Baylor University, came to work at the First Baptist Church in Mercedes and befriended Bob. One Sunday near the end of the summer, the ministerial student convinced Bob to enroll at Baylor. Bob went home, packed up his car with everything he thought he would need and left for Baylor the next day. In his sophomore year, following the outbreak of the Korean War, Bob joined the Air Force ROTC. Shortly before the start of his senior year at Baylor, Bob enrolled in Baylor Law, where he quickly found one of his life’s passions—the practice of law. Bob graduated from law school in 1955 and served as co-editor of the Baylor Law Review. In the fall of 1952, Bob met the love of his life, Bette Lu Nichols. Gene was a friend to everyone and would tell anyone about our Father God, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit.

Gene entered this world in El Paso, TX, on January 17, 1953, and went to heaven from Canyon, TX, on June 23, 2021. He called Andrews his hometown and graduated from Andrews High School in 1971. Black and Gold were the colors to wave until he went to Baylor where he waved the Green and Gold. As his love of people divulged into the community, he was involved in the Crane Volunteer Fire Department, Lions Club, and wherever there was a need. A move to Ballinger, TX, kept him on his toes with a civil and criminal practice. He loved the people in Ballinger and was active in the Rotary Club, serving as President twice, and with the Ethnic Festival.

Gene loved the outdoors as he loved living in the country. He loved the generational family ranch out from Talpa, TX, where he wanted his body to rest. The Talpa ranch was a place to play, hunt, fish, remember his grandparents, or just sit and enjoy the quietness. Gene made the decision to move to Canyon when his family needed more help. He traded fifty-five acres for a neighborhood. More than practicing law, the Black and Gold, the Green and Gold or the Talpa Ranch, he loved his family.

Nick D. Woodall, JD ’80, passed away May 21, 2020. He was a well-read man who was dearly loved as a husband, father, son, brother, teacher, friend, and follower of Jesus Christ. Born in Ladonia, Texas, on April 22, 1956, Nick was the first of three sons born to Don Woodall and Toni Stancil Woodall. The family moved frequently, settling ultimately in Rockwall. Nick graduated from Mesquite High School and attended East Texas State College, now Texas A&M University Commerce.

Transferring first to Texas Tech, he had what he called a “Road to Damascus” experience on the way and changed his major from architecture to law. He then transferred to Baylor University, where he was awarded a Finance degree and entered law school. After graduating with his JD, Nick took a job with Fanning & Harper, a Dallas insurance defense firm, and decided over coffee with local Rockwall officials to run for District Attorney of Rockwall County. It was at this time that two Southern Methodist University Law students clerking at Fanning & Harper arranged for him to meet his classmate, Nancy. Nick and Nancy were married in the midst of his campaign, a few short months before he became the youngest elected prosecutor in the State of Texas. After one very eventful term as District Attorney that included death threats to his growing family, Nick left politics for private practice. Several years later, he left law practice for financial planning, which he then left to pursue oil and gas services and development, real estate, and other investments with two of his good friends. Nick and Nancy chose a “road less traveled” and educated their four children at home. Surrounded by a small but strong community of other home school families at LakePointe Church, the family enjoyed the adventures of learning and serving together, often in church ministries and missions. Nick served as an elder at LakePointe, taught several classes, and led or participated in trips to China and Ghana, usually accompanied by at least one of his children. He and his family also were affiliated for a few years with the church alternately known as Emmanuel and Reach.

Nick’s hope in life and death was not in his own education, works, or accomplishments, but in the finished work that his Jesus accomplished at the cross. His trust that his Heavenly Father accepted him fully and loved him deeply motivated his many pursuits in life and gave him courage in the uncertainty of the last few months.
