Joining a Webex Meeting from a Mobile Device

A Webex meeting link should be sent to you prior to your event. You will need to install the Webex app to join the meeting. The following instructions and images are based on an iPhone, but using a tablet or Android device should be very similar.

You can search for the application in your device's app store, or just attempt to join the meeting and it will redirect you automatically. The name of the app is "Cisco Webex Meetings."

When you are ready to join the meeting, click on the meeting link and it will open a webpage with the meeting information. You can join the meeting up to 15 minutes early. Enter your first name, last name, and email address, then press Join.

After you click on Join, the browser will redirect a few times, then you will get a prompt to open the meeting using the "Webex Meet" app. Click Open to join the meeting via the app.
Audio and Video Connection

When the meeting first loads in the app, you will be able to set your audio and video before joining the meeting.

Your audio should be set to Use Internet for audio by default, but if you need to change the setting, you can tap the bottom of the screen. Call In will connect your audio as a phone call.

You can mute/unmute your audio and video by tapping their respective icons. Your muted status will carry over when you join the meeting.

If you join before the host, your audio and video will not be shared until the host connects. If you unmute on before joining, your audio and video will turn on automatically once the host connects.

Once you are finished adjusting your settings, click the Join button to fully connect to the meeting.
Additional Options

You can view the meeting in either portrait or landscape mode.

The icon allows you to minimize your selfview.

You can tap the icon to open an overlay with more options. From here you can change your audio setting, mute your speaker, share your screen, and access chat along with other features.

If you need to leave the meeting manually, you can tap the red X and then select Leave Meeting.

Double-tapping on a participant's video makes it full-screen in landscape mode.
