Ongoing Support and Encouragement

Thank you for your wonderful work with your students this semester. You are making a difference in the lives of your students by building relationships with them and walking them through the first semester of their Baylor experience. Let your students know that you are available to them, and that you are a resource to help them seek out the information they need to excel and thrive in their four years at Baylor. You have served our students well, and we are exceedingly grateful for you!

If you have not already done so, please report attendance for your U/BU 1000 course. You can do so by clicking here.

Even though your class is no longer meeting, your students are starting to think (and stress) about final exams and the end of the semester. During the first semester, students may find that time gets away from them, and exams and papers are due sooner than they expected. Here are some ways you might consider helping your students be successful this semester.

- Encourage them to review their syllabi to note important dates. They may also ask you to help them calculate their grades in courses, which is a wonderful opportunity for you to invite them to review the syllabus for the grading scheme and learn how to calculate this themselves.
- Remind them to look at their Mapworks report to review their areas of risk, and to take the survey again next semester and assess their development.
- Point them to appropriate campus resources for support, such as the Paul L. Foster Success Center, the Counseling Center, and the Health Center.
- You can also encourage them to explore Baylor’s opportunities for learning beyond the classroom, including Missions, Study Abroad, Undergraduate Research, and Academic Excellence Opportunities.
