Logistical information for students considering taking PHY 1408 or 1409 with Dr. Bolton:

1. Midterm exams (4 total) will be held on Wednesday evenings from 6pm to 8pm. On exam days, our normal lecture period will be an optional review session. Exams are written to take 50min. You may arrive/leave whenever you like in the given window. If you are unable to attend a midterm because of a serious scheduling conflict, you may contact me to make other arrangements.

2. You will need to purchase a “clicker” that you use to respond to questions during class. Depending on the type of clicker you choose, this will cost $15 to $50.

3. You will need to purchase both a textbook and access to the online homework system. If you purchase the textbook from the bookstore, access to the online system will be included.

4. There is a lab associated with this course that you need to register for separately. Your lab will be taught by a TA, but your lab score will be factored into your lecture grade and you will receive a single grade for 1409.

Note: Other 1408/09 instructors may have different policies.
