Potential Funders for Faith Based Funding

Steps in Pursuing a Potential Funding Opportunity:

1. Find Funding Opportunities
   1) Look through the table of Potential Funders below. Click the links to the website of the funder in order to get current information and to better see if that funding source matches your research needs. Be sure to check the other 29 Curated Funding Lists.
   2) Other Grant Searching Tools: Baylor subscribes to two grant search engines (Pivot and GrantForward) that will send you regular alerts of funding if you supply your research interests. Log in with your Baylor credentials. See instructions for using these effectively: Search Funding Databases. Government Funding opportunities can also be searched on Grants.gov and Federal Grants Wire.
   3) Pick Funders that match your research most closely. Go on their website and sign up for their email alerts of funding opportunities (if available).

2. Starting Application Process
   1) Contact URA: When you are ready to start applying for a grant, start by contacting your department’s URA (University Research Administrator). They will help you with working with Pre-Award to set up a Box folder, registrations, understanding Baylor’s procedures, and gathering supplementary documents.
   2) Check Limited Submissions: Some funding opportunities limit the number of proposals from an institution. For these opportunities, the OVPR holds an internal competition eight weeks before the external submission date. For details and deadlines see: Limited Submissions

3. Use Baylor Tools for Writing Competitive Grants:
   1) Research Development’s: Grant Writing Workshop & Writing and Editorial Assistance
   2) PowerPoint Courses for Baylor Faculty on Applying for Grants
   3) Grant Toolkits for Faculty (Includes Excel Grant Planner, Templates for Letters and Facilities pages, links to applications and forms, and Guides for how to write each grant competitively.)

Note on the Using the Funding Lists:
- Content for each table was taken from the Funder’s website and is intended to give you a brief overview of that funder. Be sure to go to the Funder’s website for up-to-date information and specific current funding opportunities (RFP’s).
- The index is hyperlinked to lead you to a table with more information. Ctrl+Click on index items to go to the table.
- Within the table, Ctrl+Click to follow links to funder’s website.

Description: Funding in Private Higher Education tends to be in constructing buildings or renovation. In interfaith it is in collaboration with schools of faith. The Arthur Vining Davis Foundations were organized in 1952 under a living trust established by Mr. Arthur Vining Davis. The Foundations bear witness to Mr. Davis’ successful corporate leadership acumen and his visionary, entrepreneurial spirit in philanthropy. Under our current strategic plan, the Arthur Vining Davis Foundations are pleased to support projects in the following areas:

Private Higher Education The most competitive proposals will emphasize one or more of the following:
1. Leadership development for faculty, students, and senior leaders;
2. Diversity, inclusion, and support for underserved education constituencies;
3. Interfaith literacy and leadership for curriculum, student, and faculty research;
4. Environmental stewardship and sustainability in research, curriculum, and experience; and
5. Student and faculty intellectual inquiry, including faculty development and support for student-faculty undergraduate research.

Public Educational Media Requested grant funds from AVDF must be for capstone funding;
The series or film must be assured of national airing on PBS or other national distribution platforms;

Interfaith Leadership & Religious Literacy The most competitive proposals will:
1. Focus on programs designed for college-aged students, graduate students, or career professionals;
2. Emphasize interfaith curriculum development in theological schools, private colleges or universities, graduate schools, and programs with national impact;
3. Further the understanding and programming around interfaith issues in palliative care; and
4. Explore the interfaith issues embedded in our environmental challenges and solutions.

Since inception, the Foundations have given over 3,800 grants totaling more than $300 million to colleges and universities, hospitals, medical schools, and divinity schools. The Arthur Vining Davis Foundations have funded visionary leadership in public television for scientific and historical documentaries, children's programming, and the distribution of high-quality educational media.

Description: The Robert & Toni Bader Charitable Foundation was created in 2010 to provide philanthropic support to help make the world a better place. Based in Indianapolis, Indiana, our mission is to help further Jewish ideals in the areas of education, science and the arts.

Since our beginning, we’ve funded projects from New York to California, Michigan to Florida. We have helped teachers educate, helped children learn, helped feed the hungry, helped people earn a living, helped provide work for the unemployed, and helped find new ways to treat illness and improve quality of life. If you are engaged in any of these activities, let us hear from you.

Our logo, the Tree of Life, is a universal symbol of growth and re-growth, providing benefits to the present and future. The circle represents unity and continuity within our communities and our lives.

The foundation, as stated in its bylaws, will make contributions to qualified exempt organizations under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code for, but not limited to, the following purposes:

- literacy
- Jewish education
- nationwide recycling programs
- alternative energy
- classical musical education
- public radio & television
- museums
- wildlife conservation
- theater
- music education
- HIV/AIDS research
- Hemophilia research
- food for the hungry

3. Baylor Global Missions
Baylor Missions partners with faculty and staff in order to provide missions opportunities, projects and research opportunities. Faculty can become a team leader, apply for a research or leadership grant and support current mission projects with discipline-specific expertise. Contact the Baylor Global Missions staff to discuss your possible role and possible research and funding possibilities.

Faculty research can be done with or without students. BU Missions grant is separate from trip costs and imbeds within the student experience (for trips with students). Trip leaders are eligible for a leadership grant which would cover their costs. Faculty research without students involves applying for a BU Missions grant to cover trip costs. If you are interested in leading a team in the future, contact Rebecca Kennedy, Director for Missions OR Jill Hatcher, Assistant Director for Baylor Missions: Operations for information about becoming a NEW team leader.

Deadline(s): April

Support Strategies: Vocation for Christian students grants: Christian Private Higher Education Grants-Baylor is a NetVUE member

Funding: $5,000 to $60,000

Description: The Network for Vocation in Undergraduate Education (NetVUE) is a nationwide network of colleges and universities formed to enrich the intellectual and theological exploration of vocation among undergraduate students. This initiative is administered by the Council of Independent Colleges (CIC) with generous support from Lilly Endowment Inc. and members’ dues.

The purposes of NetVUE are to:

- Deepen the understanding of the intellectual and theological dimensions of vocational exploration;
- Examine the role of vocational exploration in a variety of institutional contexts;
- Share knowledge, best practices, and reflection on experiences across participating campuses;
- Facilitate the incorporation of additional colleges and universities into this enterprise; and
- Sustain an extended program in the intellectual and theological exploration of vocation.

Colleges and universities rooted in the liberal arts are particularly well suited to undertake the task of educating future leaders who are theologically literate, whose attitudes and behaviors are shaped by their values and commitments, and who are eager to sustain a life of service that is guided by a sense of calling.

Vocation across the Academy Grants

Vocation across the Academy Grants are available to support institution-wide initiatives at NetVUE member colleges and universities over a three-year period to expand ongoing programming in the intellectual and theological exploration of vocation across the liberal arts and applied professional fields. Proposals that seek to integrate vocational exploration as a continuum from the first year through the senior year are especially encouraged. For this new grant program, institutions may request up to $25,000 per year in the first year. Matching funds raised from third-party sources are required to support the proposed activities in the second and third years. Upon fulfillment of the matching requirement, institutions may receive up to $10,000 in additional grant funds for use during the second and third years. Thus, the entire funding from CIC and third-party sources may be up to $60,000 for the three-year period of the grant. This is the second round of selection.

View eligibility and application information.

Professional Development Awards Professional Development Awards were available to support opportunities for the professional development activities that enhance the knowledge, skills, and expertise of faculty and staff members who support undergraduate vocational initiatives. All eligible NetVUE member institutions were able to request $5,000 to $10,000 for use over one full academic year to support professional development of faculty and staff members to strengthen vocational exploration programming for students. This is the sixth round of selection.

View eligibility and application information.
PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT GRANTS Program Development Grants are intended to deepen, expand, or otherwise strengthen vocational exploration programs that were already underway and supported by NetVUE member colleges and universities. Institutions that did not previously receive funding through Lilly Endowment’s prior Programs for Theological Exploration of Vocation (PTEV) initiative were eligible to request between $25,000 and $50,000 for use over a two-year period to develop existing vocational exploration initiatives. Since the PTEV program has concluded, the Lilly Endowment seeks to recognize and encourage colleges and universities that, with their own funds, have been striving for similar efforts. To date, five rounds of these grants have been awarded to more than 100 NetVUE member institutions.

<td>Support Strategies: Small grants to fund innovative community work; Grants to Christian workers (including Christian college employees) for reflection time</td>
<td>Funding: $10,000 to $15,000</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Description: Traditioned Innovation Awards honor work that holds together past and future. Leadership Education at Duke Divinity grants Traditioned Innovation Awards to initiatives that engage in experiments to transform communities by living out the convictions of an ancient faith in the current challenging circumstances.

“Traditioned innovation” is a way of thinking developed by theologian L. Gregory Jones that holds the past and future in tension, not in opposition, and is crucial to the growth and vitality of Christian institutions. The awardees inspire Christian leaders to consider our convictions and daily activities so that we may more abundantly bear witness to the reign of God. They do that by:

- embodying one or more Christian practices in their pattern of work;
- cultivating an economic imagination for sponsors, participants and observers;
- nurturing the conditions for friendships that move beyond transactional relationships to ones of mutual appreciation, learning and growth;
- rooting their work in building and sustaining community; and
- reaching a point when they are beginning to see the fruit of their work.

The 2017 winners are The Brain Kitchen of Marion, Ind.; First Nations Kitchen, a ministry of All Saint’s Episcopal Indian Mission of Minneapolis, Minn.; GO FISH! of Pullman, Wash.; and the Kuhnekt Initiative at The Grove of Charlotte, N.C. Each will each receive $10,000 and be featured in Faith & Leadership. Nominations are collected in a review process and award recipients are determined by a panel of judges.

“The Traditioned Innovation Award recognizes and affirms the faithful and innovative work of an outstanding Christian initiative,” said Victoria White, Leadership Education’s managing director of grants. “We want to encourage the creativity and renewal found in the challenges and opportunities of institutions when they innovate. While the financial award is important to the continued work of these organizations, the hope is that through their stories, others will be inspired to innovate in their individual contexts.”

The Reflective Leadership Grant program offers lay and ordained Christian leaders up to $15,000 to step away from their current work to reflect and focus on the long view. Leaders must simultaneously manage immediate needs and look ahead to what is coming next. In today’s rapidly changing context, leaders often spend so much time reacting that they don’t have the time or space to “get on the balcony,” stepping away from daily obligations and faithfully plan next steps.

How does your leadership style need to adapt to respond to a changing context?

Each year, up to 20 Reflective Leadership Grants will be awarded to organizations on behalf of a leader who has accomplished significant goals within their work and is ready to design the next chapter. These leaders serve in a range of roles, from project director to senior administrator, and work in a variety of organizations, including denominations, seminaries, church-related colleges, consultancies, congregations, Christian non-profits, Christian social enterprises and others.

ELIGIBILITY
Reflective Leadership Grants are awarded after a competitive application process open to any employee of a faith-based charitable organization, which includes denominations, seminaries, church-related colleges, consultancies, congregations, Christian non-profits, Christian social enterprises and others. We are particularly interested in supporting leaders whose work contributes to healing and hope in their communities by strengthening congregations, social services, schools and other organizations.

HOW TO APPLY
Successful proposals will describe the applicant’s ministry, what has been accomplished, and why this is a pivotal moment for reflection. Activities for the balcony time might look like:

- Consulting a subject matter expert
- Attending an event or conference, particularly events from different fields of inquiry
- Traveling to observe others doing similar work
- Stepping out of one’s work for a season to spend time reflecting
- Paying the cost of a replacement in the organization
- Providing childcare or senior care so the applicant can be away from home

Description: Through its African American Faith-Based Education and Awareness initiative, the foundation is funding 11 faith-based organizations in Texas to increase awareness and perceptions of mental health, recovery and wellness in African American communities. The goals of this initiative are to educate African American faith communities about mental health, wellness and recovery, and to build on the unique strengths of churches and other faith-based organizations in African American communities to identify and connect congregants with local behavioral resources for treatment and support. An additional goal is to support faith leaders in addressing their own mental wellness.

Alliance for Greater Works Grand Prairie will be overseeing the training and technical assistance, partnering with the external evaluation team and providing support to the 11 grantees.

<td>Our religion grantmaking aims to deepen and enrich the religious lives of American Christians, principally by supporting efforts that enrich the vitality of congregations. We believe that the long-term health of congregations depends on excellent pastoral leadership, and our grants seek to ensure that congregations have a steady stream of wise, faithful and well-prepared leaders. We also support efforts that help Christians draw on the wisdom of their theological traditions as they strive to understand and respond to contemporary challenges and live out their faith more fully. Much of this work centers on the theological concept of vocation and focuses on helping Christians, especially youth and young adults, discover how God calls them to lead lives of meaning and purpose. In addition, we believe that religion plays a critical role in shaping American life. Through grants to major cultural institutions and 501(c) (3) news and media organizations, we seek to foster public understanding about religion and lift up in fair and accurate ways the contributions that people of all faiths and diverse religious communities make to our greater civic well-being.</td>

<td>The social sector includes organizations that share a public mission with government to address and reduce the effect of social problems, thereby improving people's quality of life. In Texas, this sector is made up of both faith-based and secular nonprofit organizations that possess unique strengths in serving those in need that government cannot duplicate. In order to meet the growing need for social services, it is critical that individuals, private business, government and particularly faith-based and community organizations are positioned to work together as committed and effective partners. Texas has long been a leader in reducing the obstacles that faith-based and community groups face when seeking to collaborate with each other and with state and federal government to better serve our communities. Support Strategies: Research on big questions
Funding: Varies
Description: Science & the Big Questions: Sir John Templeton stipulated that most of the Foundation's resources would be devoted to research (and disseminating the results of research) about the "basic forces, concepts, and realities" governing the universe and humankind's place in the universe. What did he mean by "basic forces, concepts, and realities"? Sir John's own eclectic list featured a range of fundamental scientific notions, including complexity, emergence, evolution, infinity, and time. In the moral and spiritual sphere, his interests extended to such basic phenomena as altruism, creativity, free will, generosity, gratitude, intellect, love, prayer, and purpose. These diverse, far-reaching topics define the boundaries of the ambitious agenda that the Foundation calls the Big Questions. Sir John was confident that, over time, the serious investigation of these subjects would lead humankind ever closer to truths that transcend the particulars of nation, ethnicity, creed, and circumstance.

Grants: https://www.wabashcenter.wabash.edu/wabash-grants/
Deadline(s): Varies
Support Strategies: Religious education of higher education
Funding: $5,000 to 30,000
Description: The Wabash Center provides funds for activities that enhance teaching and learning in the fields of religious and theological studies as taught in colleges, universities, and theological schools. We fund projects that focus on at least one of three areas:
- improving teaching and learning practices
- encouraging research and study of pedagogical issues
- nurturing supportive teaching environments

The Wabash Center grant program is primarily concerned with building the capacity of higher educational institutions and faculties for sustained pedagogical conversations that directly enhance student learning. The grants we award are intended to empower and encourage teachers to initiate relevant change within their home institutions. We are committed to developing critically reflective and pedagogically informed teachers who can make use of the scholarship about teaching and learning to engage classroom issues. We are interested in projects that attend to particular pedagogical issues and promote supportive teaching environments. Hence, projects might:
- seek to understand the students being taught and the competences they bring to the classroom
- attend to specific challenging or complicated student learning issues
- address aspects of student resistance to learning
- identify and address evaluation and assessment issues
- engage in difficult conversations in the classroom, such as those around racial privilege, gender, and sexuality, or interfaith issues
- Projects might involve meetings of scholars across schools, regions, denominations, or subject areas to think about syllabi, teaching strategies, student learning styles, or teaching as a vocation. Or they might involve a single department experimenting with creative ways to enhance teaching or a doctoral institution helping their students prepare for teaching careers. We encourage interested applicants to propose creative projects that will enhance their particular teaching and learning contexts.
Grant Coaching
We strongly encourage you to be in conversation with us as you develop ideas for a grant project and write a formal proposal. We will gladly give you feedback on your ideas and on a draft proposal in a timely manner.
