Print editions of the Faculty Handbook were most recently produced in 1997, 2000, and 2002. Copies of those handbooks are available for review in the Provost's Office.

After the release of the 2002 handbook, many of the policies and other information included in it were updated pursuant to the proper University procedures and published on the University website. Other policies and procedures became outdated or inaccurate. Consequently, the Provost's Office created and managed a Faculty Handbook website that served as a temporary faculty handbook. During the fall of 2009, the Provost's Office updated and revised that website to create a new site. In the spring of 2018, the faculty handbook website was added to the updated website of the Provost's Office which you are now viewing.
