

Therapist Vacancy announcement

Enrichment is excited to announce that we have one vacancy for a therapist to join our boutique practice. We are an exclusively private pay practice, meaning we do not take or file insurance. This results in a highly invested client base which is very rewarding. Candidate must be licensed or be in process for licensure as an LMFT, LCSW, or LPC who is experienced with trauma and family systems theory. Additionally, we are looking for someone who is a fan of and willing to implement the concepts of The Daring Way, Bren'e Brown and her research findings into the counseling practice. We prefer that the candidate be EMDR trained or in process or willing to obtain EMDR training. We offer an in-suite fully stocked client art space and client meditation room. Additionally, we have a Licensed Massage Therapist, private 500 hour Yoga Teacher, Certified Ayurveda nutrition coach on staff. We are holistic and collaborative in our approach to care and seek someone who shares this mindset. We offer a hybrid membership model for joining the practice as a clinician. Membership includes many amenities including clinical consultation and practice building consultation. I will help you define your niche, practice passions and specializations. To succeed in this business model, you must be ambitious, have lots of initiative, the ability to create and implement new initiatives and be willing to network and build a reputation for yourself as a clinician working at Enrichment. With these traits, you have an income earning potential that is greater than traditional salaried employment. The business model additionally offers maximum opportunity to build an ideal client base and a schedule which supports your priorities in life and work. If you are interested, please contact Salley Schmid LMFT, the Owner and President of Enrichment Training & Counseling Solutions, P.C. She can be reached by phone at 254-235-3500.
