Monday Healthy Tip from Monday Campaigns
Monday, October 30, 2017

Did you know that when you daydream, you are actually doing something that’s great for your brain? Daydreaming is seen by some people as a sign of being easily distracted or disconnected. However, for many, it is a healthy form of mental exercise. Daydreaming can help us develop creative ideas, solve problems, or even just relax. The next time you find yourself daydreaming, remember that you might be doing something good for your mental health!
