Baylor University

GEORGE W. TRUETT THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

BIBLICAL, RELATIONAL, PRACTICAL, MISSIONAL

Baylor's Doctor of Ministry is a Kingdom-purposed degree that connects missional passion to serious academic research in ministry practice. Seminars are kept small to allow for high-quality discussion and deep spiritual relationships within cohorts and with faculty.

"THE CLASSROOM EXPERIENCE AT BAYLOR'S DMIN IS INCREDIBLE! SPENDING TWO WEEKS IN A SMALL SEMINAR SETTING, INTERACTING WITH SOME OF THE BRIGHTEST THEOLOGIANs AND PASTOR-SCHOLARS IN THE COUNTRY HAS BEEN INDESCRIBABLY BENEFICIAL TO ME."

KENNY HIBBARD, CURRENT DMIN STUDENT
LEAD PASTOR, TEAM CHURCH,
MATTHEWS, NORTH CAROLINA

PROGRAM PILLARS

Baylor's three-year Doctor of Ministry degree is built around four intensive two-week, Kingdom-focused seminars and an individually guided study process that culminates in a dissertation project uniquely suited for your specific ministry context and interest. The seminars are led by two instructors, a professor in the field of study and a current ministry practitioner with a doctoral degree.

- Proclaiming the Kingdom
- Living the Kingdom
- Leading the Kingdom
- Sharing the Kingdom

SPIRITUAL FORMATION: THE SCARLET THREAD

Every student is involved in a spiritual formation group that meets daily during the seminars and monthly via video throughout the program. This creates a fresh pattern for a daily time with God in addition to generating life-long ministry partnerships.

INDIVIDUALLY GUIDED, RELATIONSHIP-INSPIRED STUDIES

You will work individually with three personal mentors — a professor who becomes your academic advisor and resource, a ministry practitioner who inspires and guides your practical reflections during the learning process, and a sociologist from Baylor's Institute for the Study of Religion (ISR) who directs the development of your individual project design.

"I CHOSE BAYLOR'S DMIN PROGRAM BECAUSE I WAS LEADING MUCH BUT NOT LEARNING ENOUGH. GIFTED PEOPLE I TRUST AND RESPECT CHALLENGE ME, AND THE STRUCTURE OF THIS PROGRAM ALLOWS ME TO GROW IN MY THEOLOGY AND ITS APPLICATION FOR OUR LOCAL CHURCH."

JASON SHEPPERD, CURRENT DMIN STUDENT
PASTOR, CHURCH PROJECT, HOUSTON, TEXAS
