Pre-Professional Programs that May Require Calculus (MTH 1321)

These programs are not majors. Baylor University offers a program of undergraduate instruction designed to prepare students for application to the professional schools. Most professional schools do not have a preference for a particular degree or major. Students should incorporate prerequisite courses, such as calculus and chemistry into whatever degree program they choose. Students should seek more information and contact for various professional schools.

| Pre-Dental | Pre-Pharmacy |
| Pre-Medical | Pre-Physical Therapy |
| Pre-Occupational Therapy | Pre-Physician Assistant |
| Pre-Optometry | Pre-Veterinary Medicine |

*Students begin these majors as pre-majors, for example "Pre-Engineering".

The following Health Sciences Studies options require only Pre-Calculus (MTH 1320); however, Calculus (MTH 1321) will also satisfy the requirement:

Health Science Studies - Health Professions Option
Health Science Studies - Pre-Athletic Training Option
Health Science Studies - Pre-Physical Therapy Option
Health Science Studies - Secondary General Science Education Option
