NAMED AFTER THE HUACO NATIVE AMERICAN TRIBE, THE VILLAGE OF WACO WAS ESTABLISHED IN 1849 AND INCORPORATED AS A CITY IN 1856 BY A JEWISH, JAMAICAN-BORN SPANIARD NAMED JACOB DE CORDOVA.

Today, Waco is a diverse, bustling city of 138,183, with a demographic makeup that is 43 percent white, 32 percent Latinx American, 22 percent African American and 2 percent Asian American.

Wacoans come from many backgrounds and are comprised of different cultures, religions, and identities. They celebrate and pay homage to their diversity collectively in a multitude of ways. Throughout the city are districts, restaurants, and events that showcase the various populations that call the city home. The Waco Culture Guide highlights the cultures throughout the city with the belief that as Waco grows, so will the diversity present within the city.

Like Waco, the culture guide is composed of a diverse collection of stories told by people and organizations dedicated to highlighting all parts of our community. Each contributor has provided valuable information that will continue to educate both visitors and residents alike on the cultural wealth present throughout the city. Thank you to each of our contributors whose work made the culture guide possible. Waco is better because of you.

25th STREET CORRIDOR
Over the past two decades, the 25th Street Corridor has transformed into a thriving Latinx cultural district, home to shops, eateries, and festivals that celebrate this heritage. Visitors can shop and savor treats from pan dulce through paletas, or enjoy authentic Michoacana cuisine. A hub for creatives, local artwork adorns the walls of Ruff’s Cocina, host to the Waco Poets Society’s open mic night and local arts organizations, the Waco Art Forum and the Central Texas Artist Collective, along the corridor home. Festivals draw participants from the entire Waco community. The La Navidad Latina street festival takes place every year around Christmas, closing a portion of the corridor to traffic to create a pedestrian-friendly area. The Elm Avenue District is experiencing a resurgence and desegregation, several mainstay businesses remained but, over time, the area became an underutilized asset. The Elm Avenue District is experiencing a resurgence as diverse new businesses, hotels, eateries, festivals, and infrastructure improvements continue to develop. Elm Avenue’s community connection and heritage are evident through vibrant murals on business exteriors and public spaces, as well as the redevelopment of the historic Quinn Campus into a community hub, including a charter school, community YMCA, and the African American Chamber of Commerce. Just minutes away from Waco’s bustling downtown, Brazos River, Doris Miller Memorial, and community parks, Elm Avenue offers a variety of shopping experiences, history, and culture.

ELM AVENUE DISTRICT
Historic Elm Avenue is located in the heart of East Waco. Once home to Paul Quinn College and The College View Hotel (featuring in The Negro Motorist Green Book) which served as a loose basis for the movie The Green Book, Elm was a major thoroughfare for African American businesses, community members, and travelers before desegregation. After desegregation, several mainstay businesses remained but, over time, the area became an underutilized asset. The Elm Avenue District is experiencing a resurgence as diverse new businesses, hotels, eateries, festivals, and infrastructure improvements continue to develop. SILO DISTRICT
With its collection of unique businesses, former warehouses, former heads of industry and, of course, the namesake silos, the Silo District has a distinctly industrial feel. Without question, its largest draw is Magnolia Market, home to the iconic silos at Webster Avenue and 6th Street, a bakery, coffee shop, and additional features currently under development. The area boasts a diverse roster of attractions, from the historic Dr Pepper Museum to the shops at Mary Avenue Market.

UPTOWN
Uptown district is an area with a distinguished past and a growing future, this district, starting around 13th and Austin Avenue, enjoyed a mid-century heyday as a business district and still is home to small local shops today, although the area is now known for its unique blend of urban living with easily accessible activities and entertainment. The area mixes residential blocks, loft-style living alongside coffee shops, farm-to-table restaurants and retailers.
African Americans have held a central role in the development of Waco and McLennan County since the first permanent settlements were established in the mid-nineteenth century. The first Black residents came to Central Texas primarily as slaves to white cotton farmers. When the South lost the Civil War within 10 years of the city’s incorporation, African Americans worked to build new lives as freedmen and freedwomen. Within this work toward social and economic equality, African Americans shaped the history of local communities as they moved into the twentieth century. Tenant farmers and sharecroppers produced the cash crop which brought prosperity to the city, and Black entrepreneurs opened businesses on Waco’s Bridge Street. New institutions in the areas of education, finance, and religion fostered the betterment of Black lives.

African American success was evident in many fields, including politics, the military, sports, and the arts. Notable names include NFL Hall of Famer Ladainian Tomlinson, Broadway artist Jules Bledsode, and World War II Hero Doris Miller, whose legacy is memorialized along the Eastern bank of the Brazos River.

ORGANIZATIONS

centexchamber.com
The mission of the Cen-Tex African American Chamber of Commerce is to participate in economic development efforts designed to strengthen and expand the growth of all African American businesses within the Central Texas area. The Cen-Tex Chamber spearheads multiple community activities designed to encourage new business and prosperity.

WACO NAACP
www.waconaacp.org
The mission of the Waco NAACP, like that of the National NAACP, is to ensure the political, educational, social, and economic equality of rights of all persons and to eliminate race-based discrimination. Since its founding in 1936, the Waco NAACP has worked to secure the social and political equality of all citizens of McLennan County. Meetings are held every fourth Monday of the month at the Waco Central Library.
Waco is home to numerous events and locations that are special to its African American community, including those mentioned here.

BRIDGE STREET

Though the historic buildings no longer stand, Bridge Street remains an important part of Waco’s history. Not only did it provide a place for Waco’s African American community to engage in commerce in the heart of downtown, but it also served as a communal gathering place in which respite from prejudice and segregation could be found during the mid-20th century. Construction currently underway aims to revitalize this stretch of Waco’s history. New apartment complexes, hotels, restaurants, and a community-designed plaza adjacent to both downtown and Elm Avenue will serve as a point of connection between these booming districts.

GHOULSON HEIGHTS AND SHARONDALE ADDITIONS

For more African American owned businesses within Waco, please contact the Cen-Tex African American Chamber of Commerce.

BUSINESSES

Below is a list of some of the many Waco-area African American owned businesses providing a range of services. For more information or directions, please visit wacohistory.org.

DORIS MILLER

Born and raised in Waco, Doris Miller was the first African-American to be awarded the Navy Cross for his bravery during the attack on Pearl Harbor. Highlighted for his heroics in the Academy Award-nominated film Pearl Harbor, Doris Miller is honored locally through the memorial located on the Brazos River banks in East Waco, the neighboring community center and the nearby YMCA. A true testament to the bravery of African-Americans who fought for this country in World War II despite the adverse treatment they received at home, Doris Miller, will forever represent Waco’s best.

JUNETEENTH

On June 19, 1865, news of Black emancipation from slavery made its way to Texas. This day became known as Juneteenth, an African American holiday that originated in communities in the South. Waco’s annual Juneteenth Weekend Extravaganza is the largest celebration of African American heritage in Waco, drawing a diverse crowd from across the Central Texas region and beyond to celebrate the importance of health, family, and creative identity in Black communities. The Juneteenth Extravaganza includes a parade, gospel celebration, vendor market, and scholarship pageant.

QUINN CAMPUS

Formerly home to Paul Quinn College, the oldest of the Historically Black Colleges and Universities in the state of Texas, Quinn Campus at 2020 Elm Avenue is a staple of the Waco African American community. The campus serves as a reminder of its vibrant past and as a glimpse into the promising future for the site and the community. Quinn Campus is home to a collective of entities working together to further the East Waco community, including the Cen-Tex African American Chamber of Commerce, the Doris Miller YMCA, Rapaport Academy, and the Waco multi-purpose center. Visit wacohistory.org for more African American cultural landmarks within Waco.
Texas is a thriving, multicultural state thanks to the perseverance and the presence of Asian Americans. Given the variety of countries and cultures within the continent of Asia, the term Asian American may be considered more of a cultural definition than a homogeneous, geographical one.

The first Asian immigrants to arrive in Texas in 1870 were Chinese laborers employed to build the Houston and Texas Central Railroad. Additional Chinese workers arrived in 1881 to follow the construction of the Southern Pacific Railroad and stayed once the line was completed. A range of entrepreneurs from varying Asian cultures, including Cambodia, Korea, India, Taiwan, and Vietnam, have chosen to share their culture through business, social, and educational opportunities throughout the city. Waco is home to a growing number of Asian American-owned businesses providing a range of services, including those listed here.

BUSINESSES

WACO CHA

Waco Cha was inspired by the husband and wife team of Devin Li and Jaja Chen. As Asian Americans with immigrant backgrounds, Devin and Jaja found Central Texas to be a difficult area in which to find the food and drinks they loved growing up. In addition, they found it challenging to find community and a place of belonging after graduation from Baylor. Devin and Jaja have led the community in bridging cultures and community through their cooking, food, tea, and hospitality, first as a food truck, now as a beloved brick and mortar restaurant in downtown.

EAST MARKET AND GOODS

eastmarketandgoods.com

Recognizing an opportunity to increase the diversity of experiences within Waco, market founder Tim Kulkarni has set out to create East Market and Goods, an international grocery store that promotes exploration through diverse, high quality products and experiences. The selection focuses on Eastern/Asian offerings that stretch from India to the Philippines and everything in between. East Market and Goods plans to host different activities throughout the year to provide context and education to celebrations, holidays, and events that happen throughout the world. Located at the intersection of Highway 6 and Highway 84 in the new Shoppes at 6 Eighty Four Crossing development, East Market and Goods is on track to open late 2020.

KITOK RESTAURANT

Over the past 40 years, Kitok Restaurant has gone from a humble diner to a local institution, known for its blend of American and Korean fare. Opened in 1975 by Kitok Moore, this cultural landmark is beloved for both its Korean and American dishes, including the customer-favorite combo — the Lip Locker with cheese and oriental fries — developed in the restaurant’s kitchen. Korean American women have owned and operated Kitok Restaurant throughout its history. What began as a small burger joint has evolved over time into a unique fusion restaurant, offering American, Korean, and mash-up dishes. Its unique menu coupled with its unchanging familiar, friendly atmosphere keeps customers coming back for more — and bringing their family and friends.

LUNAR NEW YEAR

Chinese New Year, also known as Lunar New Year or Spring Festival, is China’s most important festival. At Baylor, students, faculty, staff and guests celebrate this time during February through various activities and performances, including professional Lion Dancers — a tradition found in China — and other Asian countries in which dancers dress and mimic the movements of a lion. Numerous student organizations take part in and perform at the event, which is hosted by Baylor’s Asian Student Association.

The 1900s saw the first influx of Asian American students at Baylor. In 1900, Asian students came from only two countries: China and Japan. By 1935, students from Korea, Indonesia, Thailand, and India joined the student body. By 1950, students came from numerous Asian countries, including the Philippines, Taiwan, Hong Kong, and Burma. In a span of nine years, Asian students became the majority international student population. Baylor’s Asian student body became a diverse representation of Asian ethnic groups across the continent.

The Asian American community within Waco is ever growing and represents nearly 1% of the population. A range of entrepreneurs from varying Asian cultures, including Cambodia, Korea, India, Taiwan, and Vietnam, have chosen to share their culture through business, social, and educational opportunities throughout the city.

Visit wacochistory.org for more information regarding the history of Asian Americans in Waco.
Waco's Latinx history far predates the city. The land of Central Texas once belonged to the Spanish empire, and then Mexico, until Texas fought for its independence in 1836. After almost another decade of struggle, Texas joined the United States and started down the path to becoming the Latinx-Anglo melting pot it is today. Before long, a Spanish immigrant by the name of Jacob de Cordova came to town and officially founded the city of Waco.

For more than a century, the Latinx American population of Waco has had a tremendous impact on the growth and development of the city. During the Mexican Revolution, Waco's Sandtown neighborhood proved to be a safe haven for Latinx immigrants and Latinx Americans fleeing border violence. When Waco's red-light district, known as the Reservation, closed, an area flush with large houses in close proximity to downtown suddenly became available for little cost, and Calle Dos, a thriving Latinx American community, was born. Anchored in this community, the local Mutualista, an organization that celebrates Latinx culture and aids immigrants, works for the betterment of the community by providing healthcare and education and fights for worker's rights.

Waco's Latinx American community continues to share its gifts and strengths with the larger Waco community through art, food, music, and houses of worship. Today, you can experience the beauty of Waco's Latinx American community throughout the city and in districts such as the 25th Street and LaSalle Avenue corridors. Visit wacohistory.org for more information regarding the history of Latinx Americans in Waco.

LATINX AMERICANS IN WACO

ORGANIZATIONS

wacohispanicchamber.com

The Cen-Tex Hispanic Chamber of Commerce (CTHCC), established in 1975, strives to unite the Latinx American community in Central Texas, developing partnerships that create stronger community relationships, networking opportunities and economic growth for its members. Governed by a board of directors, the CTHCC is composed of Latinx American community leaders and other professionals in the community who recognize increasing cultural diversity. Chamber members and volunteers work with the community to successfully promote the business, economic, educational, and social development of the Latinx American community in Waco and Central Texas.

LULAC
254-235-2458

LULAC is the largest and oldest Latinx American organization in the United States. LULAC advances the economic condition, educational attainment, political influence, housing, health, and civil rights of Latinx Americans through community-based programs operating at more than 1,000 LULAC councils nationwide. The organization involves and serves all Latinx nationality groups.

lapuertawaco.com

La Puerta Waco, a faith-based ministry in Waco, was founded in order to support the Latinx American community. La Puerta Waco provides an array of non-traditional programs that prioritize family support and technology, together with the provision of life skills training — all within a faith-based environment.

CULTURAL LANDMARKS AND CELEBRATIONS

Waco is home to numerous events and locations that are special to its Latinx community, including those mentioned here.

25th STREET FIRE STATION
Once the location of the historic 25th Street Theater, this site now houses the Waco Fire Administration offices and the 25th Street firehouse. The firehouse includes a community room with plans for the space to be used for neighborhood association meetings and afterschool art lessons for youth.

CALLE DOS
Calle Dos emerged in the early 20th century as a haven for Mexican immigrants fleeing border violence and rapidly developed into a center of culture and community for Waco's Latinx American population.

Never an officially designated neighborhood, the boundaries of Calle Dos were often disputed. Some claimed the area simply to be an extension of Sandtown, while others claimed it as its own entity bounded by Fourth Street, Washington Avenue, modern-day Waco Drive, and the Brazos River. In either case, it is clear that the community along the Brazos grew to be a tight-knit center of Latinx American culture.

Many Calle Dos residents opened up businesses along and Street, transforming the once avoided area into a busy thoroughfare. Various organizations established in the area to serve the immigrant community also contributed to the neighborhood’s sense of identity. For half a century, Calle Dos provided cultural identity and community for Waco’s Latinx population, and the efforts of community leaders today ensure that this legacy will not be forgotten.
The Waco mutualista, established in 1924, was initially located within the thriving Latinx American community living at and around Calle Dos. That same year, St. Francis on the Brazos was founded to serve the poor Mexican American community in the area. Likewise, the mutualista formed under principles of union, fraternity, and progress, with its primary goal centered on watching over the Mexican working-class community. This idea is reflected in its name, La Mutualista Sociedad de Jornaleros, as the word jornaleros means laborers in English.

The Waco mutualista continues to provide aid to the community. The organization collects money for scholarship funds, toy drives, and other service activities. While its focus remains on the Mexican American and Latinx American communities, the mutualista also seeks to serve the community at large — a continuation of its rich history of service.

SANDTOWN
Sandtown was a vibrant and predominately Mexican American neighborhood that was active from the turn of the 20th century to the 1960s. It encompassed the area of downtown Waco between 3rd Street and the Brazos River, and the seven blocks between Mary Street and the present-day Umpbrey Law Center of the Baylor Law School. At its peak during the 1950s, approximately 70 working-class families resided in Sandtown. For many of the community’s families, the neighborhood was the first place they called home within the United States after emigrating from Mexico.

The people of Sandtown added greatly to Waco’s rich diversity, and its residents contributed to the economic growth of the city. Though small in size, there is no dispute over Sandtown’s significance amongst its former residents.

Visit wacohistory.org for more Latinx American cultural landmarks within Waco.

CINCO DE MAYO
Hosted by the City of Waco and held during the Brazos Night concert series on the first Friday of May at Indian Spring Park, this free family music festival is complete with food booths, vendors and games. The festival attracts more than 7,000 people each year to celebrate the 1862 victory of the Mexican army over the French Empire.

FIESTA PATRIA
Celebrated throughout Texas, this festival commemorates Mexico’s Independence Day and Father Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla’s calling for the end of Spanish rule in the country. Hosted by La Ley 104.1 and taking place mid-September at the Extraco Events Center. This is the largest Latinx American festival in Central Texas, drawing a crowd of more than 7,000 people each year.

HISPANIC HERITAGE MONTH
September 15 marks the beginning of National Hispanic Heritage Month, a time where the nation celebrates the cultural contributions and important presence of Hispanic and Latinx Americans in the United States. Wacoans celebrate this month in a number of ways, including a Floating Mercado/Vendor market, art show, and celebration highlighting local artists and their works that have been inspired by Latinx heritage. During this time, the church community also holds festivals, such as Dia Del Charro, providing other opportunities to celebrate the beauty present throughout Waco’s Latinx American community.

MUTUALISTA HALL (LA MUTUALISTA SOCIEDAD DE JORNALEROS)
Mutualistas were first established in Texas during the late 19th century by Mexican immigrants. These mutual aid societies provided immigrants with a connection to their home country and a support network to meet basic needs as they forged a life in a new and unfamiliar country.

Waco is home to a range of Latinx American owned businesses and services. Contact the CTHCC for more Latinx American owned businesses within Waco.

There are countless ways to engage with Waco’s communities of color. The opportunities — whether it is through an affinity group, place of worship, or leadership program — to build connection and community within the city are endless.

AFFINITY GROUPS

BAYLOR BLACK FACULTY AND STAFF ASSOCIATION
baylor.edu/hr/bfsa

The Black Faculty and Staff Association is dedicated to providing Black faculty, staff, and graduate students professional development, support, and mentoring through critical dialogue, cultural awareness, networking, recruitment, and retention in order to further enrich our academic excellence, worldwide leadership and service, and Christian commitment within a caring community. BFSA membership is open to all faculty, staff, graduate students, and post-doctoral students at Baylor University.

BAYLOR FACULTY OF COLOR ALLIANCE
sites.baylor.edu/bufoca

The Faculty of Color Alliance, established in spring 2017, serves as an important voice in faculty initiatives. Members of the Alliance also serve as mentors for underrepresented faculty and contribute insights to university-wide initiatives.

WACO HISPANIC LEADERS NETWORK

The Hispanic Leaders Network provides personal, cultural, and professional opportunities to inspire Latinx American leaders to serve and make a positive impact. Through this work, the HLN seeks to develop and empower current and future leaders to make a difference in the community. Meetings are held every second Friday of the month at various locations throughout Waco beginning at noon. Contact the Cen-Tex Hispanic Chamber of Commerce for more information.

ENGAGE LEADERSHIP PROGRAMS
Are you looking to grow your leadership and join a network of Wacoans actively working to improve the city? These are two of the many available leadership programs available to Wacoans.

LEADERSHIP PLENTY
wacofoundation.org/Community-Impact
The LeadershipPlenty® Institute-Waco, housed with the Waco Foundation’s Community Impact, is designed for people of varying backgrounds, occupations, and experiences who are passionate about improving the local community and developing and enhancing their own leadership skills. Founded in 2011, the program has trained more than 200 community members using 10 instruction modules that equip participants with critical leadership skills such as managing conflict, meeting facilitation and management, communicating effectively, and building community partnerships.

LEADERSHIP WACO
wacochamber.com/leadership-waco
The Waco Chamber conducts the Leadership Waco program to identify potential community leaders and provide these individuals with information about various facets of our community, which improves the quality of life of area residents. Solutions to community needs contribute to the abundance of murals, sculptures, and public art that decorate the town. Many of the murals and sculptures around town are shepherded by Creative Waco — the local arts agency that exists to grow and support a thriving cultural and creative community in Waco and McLennan County.

ARTPRENTICESHIP MURALS
Each ARTprenticeship mural represents a collaboration between student artists and professional muralists. Annually, the program facilitates new murals as a hands-on learning experience where students participate in the creative process from development through execution.

With more than 20 museums, attractions, and cultural institutions across Waco, there is always something new to discover. Visit the home of the nation’s oldest soft drink, Dr Pepper, at the Dr Pepper Museum and Free Enterprise Institute downtown. Catch a movie and bite to eat at the historic Waco Hippodrome Theatre. Explore the Waco Mammoth National Monument. Go on an adventure at the Cameron Park Zoo. Walk the Brazos River trail. From iconic museums to parks and recreation, activities and adventures await in Waco regardless of your path.

CULTIVATE 7TWELVE
Located on Historic Austin Ave., Cultivate 7twelve features art exhibitions that rotate monthly to showcase the work of Waco’s many talented artists. Additionally, this space regularly hosts local musicians and performance artists for shows within the main gallery.

KIERAN-SISTRUNK FINE ART GALLERY
Works within this former home turned fine art gallery are illuminated with vibrant colors and intricate details. Owners Mark Kieran and Susan Sistrunk encourage individuals to step away from their everyday tasks and enjoy vibrant art at this local gallery.
MUSEUMS

ARMSTRONG BROWNING LIBRARY
Dedicated to the study of the lives and works of Victorian poets Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning, this museum and research center on Baylor University’s campus houses the world’s largest collection of Browning material and other fine collections of rare 19th-century books, manuscripts, and works of art.

DR PEPPER MUSEUM
With more than 100,000 pieces of historical memorabilia, this museum highlights Waco’s place as the birthplace of the nation’s oldest soft drink, Dr Pepper, while telling the story of the soft drink industry.

HISTORIC WACO FOUNDATION
The Historic Waco Foundation shares the story of Waco through four historic homes, the Earle-Napier-Kinnard House, East Terrace, and McCulloch House, each featuring exhibits, lectures, and special events.

MARTIN MUSEUM OF ART
Located on Baylor University’s campus, the Martin Museum of Art features collections, innovative exhibitions, interpretive programs, and special events.

MAYBORN MUSEUM COMPLEX
This natural science and cultural history museum with a focus on Central Texas is located on the Baylor University campus. The complex includes walk-in exploration stations for geology, paleontology, archaeology, and natural history; themed discovery rooms that encourage hands-on learning for all ages; and the Gov. Bill & Varra Daniel Historic Village.

TEXAS RANGER MUSEUM
Located along the banks of the Brazos River, the Texas Ranger Museum and Hall of Fame pays tribute to the Texas Rangers, a legendary symbol of Texas and the American West.

TEXAS SPORTS HALL OF FAME
Dedicated to preserving the athletic history of Texas, the Texas Sports Hall of Fame is home to over 300 Texas legends.

WACO HISPANIC MUSEUM
Dedicated to preserving Waco’s Hispanic culture, this museum showcases photos, news articles and clothing from Waco’s past.

WACO MAMMOTH NATIONAL PARK
Waco’s only national park explores the history of Columbian mammoths, inhabitants of the land during the ice age and serves as a hub for scientific research and education.
